NAZIS SPEED GREEK SMASH

BELGRADE, March 26 (AP)—High neutral diplomats in Sofia, Bulgaria, reported over the telephone today that a Nazi attack on Greece from Bulgaria had originally been set for April 1 but might possibly be advanced to start this week.

Brockton Invalid Check Winner

Announcement by judges of the Boston Evening American Game of Check today reveals Leonard Clough Leighter of Perkins st., Brockton, a 42-year-old invalid, as the grand prize winner of $10,000. Pictured in his home, Mr. Leighter reads the Boston American . . . his books, radio, two of his few pleasures, within easy reach. Winners of 98 other prizes in the $15,000 contest are also announced . . . with second prize money of $2000 going to Walter E. Lyons of Ludlow and third prize of $1000 to Mrs. Leo F. A. Donlan of Wollaston.

AXIS TIE RIOTS ROCK BELGRADE

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 26 (AP)—Rioting broke out in the center of Belgrade today in protest against Yugoslavia's alliance with the Axis powers.

Police and soldiers armed to the teeth rushed to the scene and quelled the outbreak, which occurred a short time after Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic returned from Vienna, where he signed the Axis pact yesterday.

Many persons were arrested before police halted the fighting, which started when Axis sympathizers attacked a parade of students bearing British and American flags.

Unconfirmed reports circulated that authorities had ordered a search of the homes of opposition leaders who resigned from the government before the Axis alignment.

SING PATRIOTIC SONGS

The paraders already had marched through the business district, singing patriotic songs.

The students were mostly from secondary schools and formed the procession on their way home from lunch.

Authorities apparently were prepared to meet any situation.

Police and soldiers jammed courtyards throughout the city, ready to cope with any demonstrators who threatened to get out of hand.

Cvetkovic no sooner had reached the capital than he went into conference seeking to end the disorders which had been agitating the country for 24 hours.

Accompanied by Foreign Minister Alksander Cincar-Markovic, who also participated in the pact signing yesterday, the premier hurried from the station to his offices to confer at once with government leaders.

CLOSE SCHOOLS

Vice-Premier Vladimir Macek, who met the train with other cabinet ministers, followed the Premier to report on disorders which flared in all parts of the country while the treaty was being signed.

The first step taken by the authorities after Cvetkovic's arrival was to close several Belgrade public schools where thousands of older boys destroyed pictures of Adolf Hitler and staged sit-down strikes.

Police cordons were stationed around some of the largest schools and it was reported all might be closed until after the Orthodox Easter, April 20, in an effort to avert further trouble.

Hundreds of persons already were reported under arrest in the provinces as a result of yesterday's demonstrations which threatened to reach grave proportions.

FIRST TRIP TO GOTHAM—Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, and his wife arrive in New York . . . visiting the Big Town for the first time. Later the envoy attended banquet, spoke over a world-wide radio hookup . . . and declared that embattled Britain's war aims are dedicated to a rebirth of world freedom.

NEW NAZI BLOCKADE ZONE STUDIED HERE

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State, said today administration officials were studying all aspects of the situation created by Germany's extension of counter-blockade operations to within three miles of Greenland and thus to the threshold of the Western Hemisphere.

Pending this study, he declined to say what steps might be taken or whether the European combat zone might be extended to Iceland, now within the German blockade area, and thus exclude American shipping from that former Danish colony.

No United States ships have been operating to Iceland, although ships of other registry have recently been plying between the island and New York.

Welles likewise declined to say whether a possible extension of the American neutrality zone to the Western Hemisphere boundary between Greenland and Iceland was one of the questions under consideration.

The neutrality zone patroled by American warships now extends to a point a short distance east of Halifax, N. S.

The proximity of the new deadline to Greenland attracted immediate attention here, because authorities have made it known on several occasions that Greenland is considered a part of the hemisphere and, as such, covered by the Monroe Doctrine.

Two U. S. Coast Guard cutters, both of them armed, were believed now operating in the vicinity of Greenland as part of the iceberg patrol.

Nazis Ban U. S. Ships From Iceland Area

BERLIN, March 26 (INS)—United States activities in the Atlantic ocean designed to aid Britain provoked extension of the German blockade zone to include Iceland, authoritative German quarters declared today.

"We have information," one well informed German source said, "that American ships regularly have been unloaded at Iceland for reshipment of their cargoes to England.

"Therefore we have decided to put an end to this kind of activity."

Berlin circles implied that beginning today German torpedoes will sink any ship, American or otherwise, which enters the extended blockade area.

Comments by American Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles on the Yugoslavian situation were accepted by German authorities as "confirmation of American interference in Europe."

13 War Craft Fail to Save Ship

BERLIN March 26 (AP)—Nazi long-range bombers were declared by informed sources to have sunk a 10,000-ton British merchant ship today out of a convoy protected by five destroyers, two cruisers and six patrol boats in the North Atlantic.

DNB, German official news agency, reported that another 10,000-ton ship was sunk by long-distance planes in an afternoon attack off the North Scottish coast. The sunken vessel was said to have been convoyed by two small naval craft.

Bethlehem Peace Talk Off; Strikers Plan New Picketing

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 26—Charging Bethlehem Steel had failed to go through with a scheduled peace conference, the Steel Workers' Organization Committee (CIO) today threatened "unrestricted picketing" as soon as possible and spread of the strike to the Bethlehem plant at Johnstown.

The peace meeting had been set for this morning, but clashes in which 41 per sons were injured, followed by smashing of the picket lines by State troopers made doubtful the prospect for a parley.

The company denied that the meeting had been cancelled and said it only had been "postponed," but gave no date or time.

Some 600 workers at a meeting roared approval of continuing the strike, cheered a description of State police as "the State Gestapo", and applauded an announcement that the State police had agreed to permit resumption of normal picketing.

MANY WORKERS BACK

Before the strikers' mass meeting, John V. Riffe, assistant director of the SWOC, had threatened "unrestricted picketing" with all the implications of serious trouble and further clashes.

"All steel making departments are operating at full capacity," General Manager R. A. Lewis reported, "almost 80 per cent of our regular force is at work."

While workers were slowly drifting into the plant, SWAC Leader John V. Riffe made his charge against the company of failure to hold the peace conference.

Meanwhile Thomas Lambert, federal mediator, sat in his hotel room unbidden to the peace conference and not even notified that it was off. Lambert said he did not know what move he might make.

Riffe in announcing that the peace meeting was off said:

"They (the company) won't agree to any further meeting at this time. Our committee of 15 was ready to meet when the cancellation was made. We held our picket line away but now we are going to restore it for unrestricted

Invalid Wins $10,000 Game of Check Prize; 98 Others Share Cash

Ending a long and careful period of studying thousands of entries, the judges in the Boston Evening American-Daily Record Game of Check today announce the $10,000 grand prize winner, as well as other winners in the $15,000 contest.

WALTER E. LYONS
Wins 2d Prize of $2000

MRS. LEO F. A. DONLAN
Third Prize . . . $1000

ALICE BISSELL AND LEONARD LEIGHTER
Reporter Presents $10,000 Check to Contest Winner

And proof that Fate sometimes compensates with smiles for its earlier frowns was furnished when the representatives of this newspaper sought out the home of the $10,000 winner to notify him of his good fortune.

The $10,000 first prize winner in the contest is Leonard Clough Leighter of 89 Perkins st., Brockton, 42-year-old invalid, once for a time a soldier of fortune, but for the last several years a braver soldier of misfortune.

In addition to this grand prize of $10,000 there were 98 other prizes awarded in the Game of Check, ranging from $2000 down to $5.

The second place winner of the $2000 prize is Walter E. Lyons, 46, of 11 Howard st., Ludlow. He is a railway mail clerk, is married and has three children, for whose education this windfall will go.

Winner of the third prize, $1000, is Mrs. Leo F. A. Donlan of 179 Davis st., Wollaston, wife of a druggist. And Mrs. Donlan has a very definite idea how the money will be used. Some will go for a new suit for her husband, some toward a new car, some to buy drums for the 14-year-old son and some for "a little trip."

The fourth prize of $500 goes to H. L. Leavitt of 17 Cross st., Belmont, who is in supervisory work for a sugar refining company, and has one son. He will use the money for insurance premiums and bills.

In the matter of the fifth and sixth positions, two women contestants were tied, with the result that the awards for these positions were pooled and the two contestants divide equally—$300 each.

They are Mrs. Elsie Hopkins of 80 School st., Arlington, wife of a Coast Guard officer, and Mrs. Catherine Brackett of 38 Hemenway st., Back Bay, a hairdresser.

Mrs. Hopkins, mother of three boys, was so startled by the good news that she had to get a glass of water before she could talk. Mrs. Brackett has a 13-year-old son

Newton Street Claims Twins World Title

Birth of twin girls to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Corliss, of 30 Falmouth rd., West Newton, led proud Newton residents to claim the one-street town championship of the world today.

They pointed out that the Corliss lassies make the third set of twins in a block of five homes in Falmouth st.

And in the event their championship claim is challenged they are ready to add that the family which previously occupied the Corliss apartment also had twins.

Three doors away Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Brown beam over twin sons, Theodore Dennis and Arthur David, 1-year-olds. Five doors away Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Flagg have 8-year-old twin boys, Gerald and Donald, among their family of 14 children.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ahlman, who occupied the Corliss apartment previously, had twin girls, Doris and Eleanor. They now live in Wayland.

The Misses Corliss were born at the Waltham Hospital yesterday and mother and dad have not yet decided on names for them. They have an older brother, Thomas Leo. Dad is a compositor for the Waltham News-Tribune.

Surrenders In Sailor Killing

John Sullivan, 31, of Burbank st., Back Bay, a seaman, walked off the freighter Mormacdove at Hoboken, N. J., today and surrendered to customs guards on the pier, allegedly with the statement:

"I just stabbed a man with a bread knife. I think he's dead."

Police, summoned by guards, boarded the vessel, a frequent visitor at Boston, and in the messroom found the body of Louis Arthur Cusson, 32, of Chicago, another seaman.

"We had a quarrel," police said Sullivan told them before they booked him on a charge of murder.

The Mormacdove, of the Moore-McCormack Lines, docked Monday at Hoboken from South America.

$10,000 FORTUNE OVERCOMES ILL BROCKTON PRIZE WINNER

If you had been an invalid for too long, had lived alone for five years except for a cat, had undergone eight major operations but needed a ninth and had no money and your rent was far in arrears—what would you do if $10,000 in cash dropped into your lap?

There is only one man in the world who, meeting these conditions, finds himself today in a position to answer—and then follow through.

He is Leonard Clough Leighter of 89 Perkins st., Brockton, who has practically lived in bed for five years and, having been a remarkable man in the past, continues to be remarkable now.

Here is what Leighter will do with his $10,000, in the order named:

Pay his landlady the four months rent he is in arrears "because she has been lovely."

Buy a lot of hamburger, liver and cream for his tiger cat "Boo Boo," so his pal at last can have a full stomach.

And then Leighter will have his ninth and imperative major operation.

HE COMES LAST

He comes last in his own estimation, but he came first in the Boston Evening American $15,000 Game of Check—and thereby won the capital prize of $10,000.

Just when the sky appeared darkest in his personal life there came this veritable fortune to lighten his burden — perhaps save his life.

Leighter is the son of Henry Clough-Leighter (he uses the hyphen in Who's Who), music editor and composer in Boston, a resident of Quincy. But father and son, said the latter, have not seen much of each other.

H. L. LEAVITT
4th Prize Winner of $500

Back years ago Leonard Clough Leighter, who now is 42, had everything to look forward to. He was a student at George Washington University in Washington, D. C. There he led his own dance band, being a skilled pianist.

Then he traveled. All over the world he traveled, poking into the odd corners of the globe, picking up a living here and there, beating life and enjoying his existence.

FUNDS RAN OUT

When he settled down he became an advertising man and did well, but then came the start of the bad breaks. It slipped up to him slyly—merely a simple appendectomy, but then came peritonitis. This poisoned his entire system and since then it has been one operation after another—for liver, stomach, ruptures, eyes, and more.

After the eighth operation his funds would not allow of the necessary ninth. As an invalid he journeyed to Brockton and the home of a woman he called aunt, but she died a short time later.

Ill as he was he had made no contacts and had no friends in

Aged Couple Evicted at Housing Plot

The authorities didn't "wait for God" to tell 72-year-old Thomas Mulvey, and his sister Annie J., 67, to move.

Today, two commitment officers for the insane and two policemen tactfully took the elderly pair away from their home in Minden st., Jamaica Plain, which they had stoutly refused to leave although all else came down around them in a housing development.

The couple, who had displayed a fanatical love for the 120-year-old home in which they were born, went without a fuss today to the Mattapan State Hospital.

Earlier, they had defied all efforts to evict them, Mulvey declaring, "I will move only when God tells me to," and describing the housing project as "the devil's work." He brandished an ancient blunderbuss before one official who tried to persuade him.

The Mulvey house was the only structure left standing in the midst of the debris of wrecked houses and excavations for new ones.

Soon after they left today, in the custody of Commitment Officers W. K. Coburn and W. H. Lamb and Patrolmen Joseph Stack and William Brauneis, vans drove up to carry their furniture away to storage and workmen prepared to raze the building.

Red-Head Bride, "Too Old" at 21, Wins Divorce

LOS ANGELES, March 26 (AP) —Red-haired Doris L. Dexter complained that 22-year-old Hugh Frank Dexter, Jr., told her:

"I don't love you any more; you're too old."

Superior Judge Roy J. Rhodes granted her a divorce with alimony. Doris' age? Just 21.

GALE, DEEP SNOW SWEEP MAINE AREA

Accompanied by strong winds, a 12 to 18-inch fall of wet, clinging snow today disrupted communications and delayed rail and air travel throughout northern Maine.

Brunt of the storm was borne by Aroostook County. The telephone company reported 47 poles down and many offices isolated.

Ten toll lines and 175 town-to-town circuits were disabled. Short wave radio sets were dispatched from Boston to supply emergency service.

Between Bangor and Caribou, where the heaviest snow was reported, radio stations transmitted emergency messages in place of telephones.

Because of poor airport conditions beyond Augusta the northbound plane from Boston was held at Augusta until later in the day.

Trains were reported moving in the section, but downed wires and snow made for lengthy delays at some points. However, the crack flyer Gull from northern Maine arrived in Boston on time.

TEN RESCUED MEMBERS OF THE ILL-FATED TANKER, CITIES SERVICE DENVER

SURVIVOR TELLS HOW 19 DIED IN TANKER BLAST

Flaming death while trapped in the forecastle of the oil tanker Cities Service Denver was the fate a survivor ascribed today to 19 missing crewmen, 10 from Massachusetts.

This news and the death of a Stoneham sailor who had emerged from Navy retirement to sign aboard the tanker, came out of Morehead City, N. C., to which port the survivors had been taken.

James T. Kerns of Stoneham, who survived two sea disasters while in the Navy, died at Morehead City today.

Kerns was aboard the Jacob Jones when she was torpedoed off Ireland in 1917 and on the U. S. S. Panay when she was bombed by the Japanese in Chinese waters in 1937. He retired from the Navy with honors after 28 years.

CLING TO HOPE

"They are dead all right," Asst. Engineer Carl Matthews of Charleston, S. C., said of the missing men.

But mothers, wives and sweethearts of the Greater Boston men refused to give up hope.

Describing horror scenes when the ship exploded 100 miles off the North Carolina coast Monday night, Matthews said that although flames were leaping 100 feet survivors remained until all hope for the 19 trapped men was gone.

Oscar Degerstedt, of Two Harbors, Minn., one of 17 survivors landed at Morehead City, died of his injuries.

Five other survivors picked up by the tanker W. W. Bruce were due in Baltimore, Md., today.

U. S. PLANS PROBE

Winfield Campbell of Portland, Me., was recovering in a Morehead City hospital. The others planned to leave today for New York, where an inquiry has been ordered by the U. S. Marine Inspection Bureau.

The explosion occurred directly under the forecastle where the 19 crew members were listening to cowboy ballads sung by Charles and Irvin Frazier, Braintree brothers who are listed as missing.

Coast guardsmen in North Carolina reported that two empty life boats had been found, but no trace of survivors.

The company listed the following 10 Massachusetts men as missing:

Boatswain Lawrence T. Reekast, Birchwood ave., East Weymouth; Antonio Barnable, Fleet st., Boston; James M. Tarr, Ayer; Irving F. and Charles W. Frazier, Central ave., Braintree, brothers; Juan Alvarez, Fleet st., Boston; Grover C. Newcomb, Baxter lane, Quincy; George W. Reid, Sheridan ave., Medford; and Robert H. and Joseph F. Stanton, Mulberry st., Fall River.

Wendell Jobless So Mrs. Willkie Lacks Own Car

NEW YORK, March 26 (INS) —Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Willkie returned to New York today in the private car of Sir Edward Beatty, chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railway, following Willkie's two-day tour of Canada.

Willkie went directly to his quarters in a mid-town hotel. Mrs. Willkie hailed a taxi.

"Where is your car?" asked a reporter.

"I have no car," said Mrs. Willkie climbing nimbly into the taxi. "I happen to be the wife of an unemployed man."

Back Bay Man Left $1, Fights Mother's Will

William P. Connor of Huntington ave., Back Bay, began a fight in Suffolk Probate Court today to break his mother's will, which bequeathed $1 to hi mwhile leaving the remainder of her $35,000 estate to another son, George H. Connor, of 40 Elnore st., Roxbury.

The mother, Mrs. Mary R. Connor, 84, of 2026 Columbus ave., Roxbury, died Oct. 26, 1940.

Atty. Henry Alpern told the court he would produce evidence to show that Mrs. Connor suffered a paralytic stroke in 1928, after the death of a son, Edward, and a slight shock in 1929.

Other evidence, he said, would show that William called in Dr. Abraham Myerson, Boston psychiatrist, to examine his mother in February 1936, two years after the will was drawn, and while he was still unaware of the document's existence.

Alpern said the doctor found Mrs. Connor "wholly demented and without judgment on business or contractural obligations." Two weeks later the court appointed two conservators, he said.

Death Gun Struggle Disputed by Expert

SALEM, March 26—The revolver with which James W. Poole, Lawrence private detective, was shot and killed in his office could not have been fired during a struggle for its possession without leaving powder marks on the victim.

This was testified to in Salem Probate Court today in the action seeking double insurance indemnity for Poole's death, for which Wanda Adamczyk, 21-year-old Dracut girl, was tried and acquitted.

She is now a witness in the suit brought by Poole's widow, Genevieve, 27, and Poole's mother, against the insurance company which had already paid single indemnity on the life policies.

EXPERT ON STAND

Sehgt. Edward I. Seibolt, ballistic expert of the Boston police department, testified that no powder marks had been found on Poole's body and that the death gun must have been held at least 18 inches away when fired.

Miss Adamczyk had testified that the gun was accidentally discharged when she and Poole both reached for it at the same time, after he had threatened her unless she disrobed.

Before testifying, Siebolt had been informed that the bullet had entered Poole's left hand, passed through the lower part of the heart and lodged in a lung.

This could not have happened during a struggle for possession of the gun, Siebolt declared.

SHELL MISSING

Sergt. Patrick F. McKenna of the Lawrence police, testified that the shell which had encased the fatal bullet had never been found.

McKenna added that the death bullet, which had been given him by the medical examiner after the autopsy, had been lost.

Waiting to testify was City Marshal Charles D. Vose of Lawrence, who took a statement from the Adamczyk girl after the shooting.

BOYS HELD IN KILLING

CONFESS SLAYING PLAYMATE—Benjamin Brough, 11, and his brother, Glen (right), 14, today were jailed at Lansing, Mich., after they allegedly confessed the mutilation murder of their 13-year-old playmate, John Kelly, Jr., in a swamp near Muskegon. The boys had been sought for two days before being picked up by police.

BLIND IN PLEA TO END DEATH PENALTY HERE

Many distinguished persons appeared before the legislative committee on judiciary in the State House today to express approval of bills that would abolish the death penalty in Massachusetts or would give juries the right to recommend life sentences.

Included among those persons were five blind young men from the Perkins Institute, society women, distinguished attorneys, ministers, representatives of civic and labor organizations.

The five blind young men, led to the table by Robert J. Giggey of the Perkins Institute, were Roland Moreau, William Burke, Thomas Cotter, Richard Lee Crane and Bruno Kiwior.

CHAPLAIN FOR BILLS

Rev. Howard P. Kellet, chaplain at state prison in Charlestown, approved the bills, as did Walter S. Ryan, deputy state commissioner of correction. Ryan also listed Commr. of Correction Arthur T. Lyman in favor.

Others who favored the measures included Michael A. Fredo, member of the Arlington school board and trustee of the Massachusetts General Hospital; Rev. Wolcott Cutler of Charlestown; Atty. Vernon W. Marr, Scituate town counsel and former Republican state committee chairman; Atty. George E. Rower, formerly connected with the Sacco-Vanzetti defense, representing the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union.

Dr. Sally Ruth Strulk of Arlington; Mrs. Rose Norwood, acting president of the Women's Trade Union League of Boston; and Atty. Samuel B. Levine, counsel for the Massachusetts Council For Abolition of the Death Penalty.

Levine read a letter from President Roosevelt to Mrs. Herbert B. Ehrmann of Brookline, in which the President told of his opposition to capital punishment, and listed governors of Massachusetts back to Edward Everett in 1836 who had opposed the death sentence.

Mrs. Ehrmann read statistics to prove that the dangerous criminal is not the man who, in heat of anger, commits a single major offense, but the hardened criminal who commits a number of lesser crimes.

QUOTES GOVERNOR

Levine also said Gov. Saltonstall told him last October that if the bill "reached his desk" he would sign it. House Speaker Christian A. Herter and Senate President Angier L. Goodwin were in favor of the measure, he said.

Louis Berrett, taxi driver, and Clarence Molway, nearly convicted of the murder of a Lynn Paramount Theater manager several years ago to which Irving and Merton Millen and Abe Faber confessed only a short while before their case went to the jury, were present at the hearing.

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY PLAN DENOUNCED BY N. E. SHIPPERS

NEW HAVEN, Ct., March 26 (AP)—The New England shippers advisory board unanimously adopted a resolution today opposing the proposed St. Lawrence seaway and power project because it "cannot properly be considered a defense measure, as the power transport added . . . Could not conceivably be available for at least four years."

The resolution, presented at the annual meeting, declared that there was "no necessity for the transportation that would be provided for only about seven months each year."

"The money, material, man power and machinery that would be required for the consummation of the plan," it read further, "should be conserved for direct use in the essential national defense program."

The board's action followed an address by Tom J. McGrath, executive director of the National St. Lawrence Project Conference, who said that the plan had President Roosevelt as "its principal, and almost its only sponsor," and that the undertaking "is cloaked with a mantle of national defense."

"I think it is safe to assert, without any doubt, that this proposal would not have been revived at this time except for the fact that the national emergency affords, at least in the minds of its proponents, a valid excuse to urge its adoption."

He said that the seaway "should not be characterized at this time as a defense measure."

Man, Wife Both Tipsy Drivers

It will come up occasionally that the husband will want to drive the family car, and the wife will want to drive it at the same time.

Such a situation arose between Mr. and Mrs. James G. Graham of I st., South Boston, at 3:30 a. m., March 14, it was testified in Roxbury court today.

"We were driving down Columbia rd.," Officers Arthur Reeves and William Kilfey told Judge Samuel Eisenstadt, "and we saw this car weaving from side to side, hitting the snow banks. We caught up to it and saw a man and woman in the front seat having an argument.

"Then the woman pulled the man away from the wheel, crawled over him, and drove off. That was when we arrested them."

Officer John J. oung, who responded with the patrol wagon, testified:

"Graham asked me to put him in a separate cell from his wife. He said she was in a bad mood."

Each was found guilty of drunken driving and fined $50.

Lyons and Family On Florida Vacation

Mayor John W. Lyons of Cambridge, whose rule of the city has been interrupted by his conviction on bribe charges, left Boston today for Miami Beach, Fla.

He was accompanied by his wife and their two children, Leo, 4 years, and Ellen, 7 months, and they will be Miami Beach guests of the Cambridge city treasurer, Andrew P. Carro'l, for about a month.

Meanwhile, in a new move to clear up the tangled mayoralty situation in Cambridge, a majority of the city council sought legislative approval for full powers for Acting Mayor Francis L. Sennett.

Cardinal Returning After Miami Winter

Refreshed after a winter vacation in Florida, Cardinal O'Connell today was homeward bound by boat from Miami.

The 81-year-old prelate embarked after spending two months at Coral Gables, where he was the guest of George MacDonald, papal marquis and owner of the Miami Biltmore Hotel.

BRIDE SOON—Valerie Whiting, one-time Brighton girl and model, will marry Antonio Morene, movie star of the silent screen, Hollywood dispatches say. He's now a movie director in Mexico.

Ship Without Convoy Reaches Hub Safely

Following the dramatic arrival of the British motorship Javanese Prince which crossed the Atlantic without convoy, shipping men speculated on the possibility that this procedure may be generally adopted by Great Britain in the future.

The faster type of ships, operating alone, thus can make more frequent trips, it was pointed out. Because of her superior speed, the Javanese Prince decided to risk the danger of Nazi raiders by crossing entirely on her own from Liverpool. She is at Mystic Docks, Charlestown.

IDA JEAN KAIN'S 'NEW FIGURE FOR SPRING' DIET RULES PERMIT MEALS YOU'LL ENJOY

Feminine minds are a-flutter over news that, beginning next Monday, March 31, Ida Jean Kain, nationally famed dietitian, will begin the first of her series, "A New Figure for Spring," in the Boston Evening American.

The noted authority on foods, facts and figures, under the main theme of "Your Figure, Madame," will discuss in her daily column the secrets underlying the correlations of food and physical fitness, the secret of nutrition as bearing on health and normal weight.

Yes, girls, she will tell you how you may develop a seasonable figure—for spring, summer, autumn or winter—and still enjoy your three square meals a day.

Sounds almost unbelievable, doesn't it, but it's true.

So many would like to diet, but the food problem worries them. That is where the value of Miss Kain's experience and knowledge counts. She places them freely at the disposal of her readers.

Miss Kain recognizes and appreciates the feminine desire for an attractive figure, combined with vibrant health and the satisfaction of normal appetites.

She knows not only what the body requires in the way of nutrition, but also how the body should be cared for physically. Through college studies, practical research and practical application, she has acquired the knowledge for which the modern Miss and modern Madame crave—in order to be attractively modern.

All of which explains why Miss Kain is well qualified to deal with all the problems of milady's figure—your figure—and point the way to health and happiness.

Watch for the first article in her series, "A New Figure for Spring," in next Monday's Boston American.

107 Draft Quota Filled Entirely By Volunteers

EASTHAMPTON, March 26 (AP)—Claiming a state-wide record matched by only one other draft district in the entire country, Selective Service Board 57 reported today that it expected to complete the year without calling a single draftee.

All of the 107 men already sent to camp have been volunteers, and the board needs only a few more V-men" to complete its 1910-1941 quota.

CUPID ON WING—A romance of the air lines was revealed with the announcement of the wedding plans of Gertrude (Jackie) Lavoie of Fall River, a stewardess, and Pilot Homer Hutton of Long Beach, Cal. They'll wed tomorrow in St. Patrick's rectory in Winthrop.

YD Giant Gets Uniform, So Officers Lose Cook

Food-loving officers at Camp Edwards, home of the YD, today bemoaned the possibility of losing the culinary talents of the nation's biggest rookie.

For now that the Army finally has found a uniform for 300-pound Pvt. Vincent F. Kennedy, 25, of Stamford, Ct., there is talk that he will be transferred from the officers' mess to active duty with his fellow soldiers.

PLEASED AT CHANGE

For lack of a uniform Kennedy was assigned to the officers' mess six weeks ago. In civilian life he was a cook at a Stamford hospital.

The man mountain is pleased over the prospects of seeing active training service. He beamed:

"Now, maybe I can swap a soup ladle for a gun and maybe I'll drop a few pounds—I guess I can stand it all right!"

After a six-week wait for his uniform, during which time he was forced to wear mufti, the 300-pound, six-foot soldier looked like a million dollars' worth of national defense in his tailor-made outfit.

In his new uniform he posed for pictures with Sergt. Lyle C. Cushing, 22, of Antwerp, N. Y., youngest top sergeant in camp and a native Vermonter who is related to the late President Coolidge, and Pvt. Theodore Hallock of Waterbury, Ct., a pal. Both are six-footers like Kennedy, but not so wide of girth.

First Class Pvt. John J. McDermott, 19, of Battery A, 102d Coast Artillery, who was honorably discharged from the Army and re-enlisted in the Flying Cadet Corps March 19, today was transferred to the Parks Air College at East St. Louis, Ill., on appointment from the War Department.

ACCIDENT VICTIM BETTER

Pvt. Wilfred H. Bates, of Hotel Hemenway, Boston, a member of Co. A., 101st Infantry, seriously hurt when he fell from a truck at the camp railhead Monday while returning from furlough, was reported "much improved" at the camp hospital. X-rays showed his spine was not fractured as feared and he is recovering from brain concussion.

GOODS FOR GREECE

LONDON, March 26 (AP)—Supplies of tin, rubber, hemp, hides, chemicals and coffee have been shipped to Greece from British colonies, the Colonial office said today, to help in the Greek war effort.

Pvt. Jim Stewart Broke, Reverses Phone Call to Dad

INDIANA, Pa., March 26 (INS)—Priv. James Stewart, whose weekly salary as a film star ran into four figures, reversed the charges last night when he telephoned his parents from San Pedro, Cal., explaining:

"I haven't got any dough."

Jimmy's dad, Alexander Stewart, hardware merchant, said the young actor-draftee had found Army life great.

His "I've got a swell sergeant" pretty well summed up the Army appraisal, the elder Stewart said.

PAUL CURLEY FACES WIFE'S SUIT MAY 23

In Suffolk probate court today, May 23 was set as the date for hearing on the divorce libel filed by Paul G. Curley's wife, night club singer Lillian Duval.

The suit against former Gov. James M. Curley's son charges cruel and abusive treatment and is uncontested.

In the suit the attractive singer states that the divorce cation she filed recently in Florida was ruled out because the court there decided it had no jurisdiction.

Curley, then 23, had completed his studies at Georgetown University only six months when he and Lillian were married at Mt. Ridge, N. Y., on Dec. 20, 1936, following many heated denials by Curley that the two intended marriage.

In her Suffolk County petition, Lillian asks permission to resume her maiden name, but she does not seek alimony as she did in Florida.

Her petition charges that the first act of cruelty took place in Boston on Dec. 15, 1937. She says here were other acts on May 12, 1938, and Jan. 11, 1940, and on "divers other occasions."

First Hubby Loses Out in Bride Auction

The quaint gipsy custom of bride buying created a perplexing situation for South End police today and Lieut. Harold G. Mitten of the Warren ave. station found himself the arbiter in a court of domestic relations held at his office.

Officers were first called to a West Canton st., South End, house on a report that a 19-year-old bride had been abducted from her husband and his family, all members of a gipsy tribe.

The girl and her "abductors," who turned out to be her mother, father and brother, were stopped in Brighton and returned to the South End station to face the husband's charges.

The young husband complained to Lieut. Mitten that his father had shelled out $1500 to "buy" the girl, in accordance with gipsy custom. Not only did the bridegroom's father pay the $1500 to the birde's family, but he met all the bills resulting from an elaborate tribal marriage celebration.

For three days the nuptial festivities went on. The event was held in Greenwich, Ohio, and was marked by a big outdoor barbeque and ancient Romany ceremonies.

But on the wedding day, the bridegroom told the perplexed lieutenant, the bride's father had received a more attractive "offer" for his daughter from another suitor. To foil any possible fraud in the proceedings, the couple were married a second time, by civil authorities in Lockport, N. Y.

They then moved to Boston, only to be trailed here by members of the bride's tribe. And now, said the bridegroom, her family seeks to carry her back to the mid-west.

N. E. FLOOD WORK CASH WINS O. K.

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—The Touse appropriations committee today approved budget estimates of $4,055,000 for New England including $2,756,000 for flood control work on the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, $203,000 for new rivers and harbors projects and $1,096,000 for maintenance of rivers and harbors projects.

The committee's O. K. came in action on a $300,272,228 bill for the civil functions of the War Department.

For the Panama canal, the committee recommended $52,135,326 cash and contractual authority of $79,000,000, after Brig.-Gen. Glen E. Edgerton, canal governor, reported that the third set of locks there probably would be completed in advance of the scheduled date, June 30, 1946.

General flood control fund was increased to $71,129,000 from the current $70,055,000. Mississippi river flood control, however, was cut to $22,000,000 for the coming year from $30,000,000 available for the current period.

As in several other measures this session, the committee wrote into the bill a prohibition against use of any of the money to those who advocate overthrow of the United States government by force or violence.

Bride of Day Seeks Divorce In Triangle

SALEM, March 26—Her husband disappeared after their wedding night, Mrs. Mary Colins, 29, of Winnerick ave., Peabody, charged in Probate Court today in seeking a divorce.

She told Judge John V. Phelan that Richard B. Collins, of New York, walked out Sept. 18, 1939 after they had spent their wedding night at her mother's home in Peabody.

The next she heardf rom him, she testified, was a year later when she received a letter from New York in which he told her he "was crazy about an English girl." The letter, read to the court, said:

"Be a good kid and get a divorce. You will find some fellow around there who will make you happy. I have met another girl and we have been keeping company for a year. She is an English girl and we are crazy about each other."

Judge Phelan took the case under advisement.

Controllers Discuss Defense Problems

Accounting problems connected with the current defense program were the topic of discussion at the meeting of the New England Controllers at the University Club, it was reported today.

Vern L. Elliott, national president of the Controllers Institute of America, was the main speaker of the evening, and Alden C. Brett of Belmont presided at the meeting.

This Ain't Spirit of '76

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Lord Beaverbrook seems to think it would be the berries if Great Britain and America hooked up after the war. That's a lot of laundry to send out together.

Well, we've rewritten the Constitution. We might as well rewrite the Declaration of Indignation. I can see Paul Revere coming back to the starting gate saying, "Sorry, boys, I made a false break.

This is a bit of historical face-lifting that puts a new expression on old wrinkles. If England came in as the forty-ninth state, the first thing it would want would be a bridge.

I met Beaverbrook with Runyon and he invited me over to London as his guest. I asked, "How about those bombs?" he said, "Well, if one has your name on it . . ."

I said, "Beaver, a bomb with your name on it isn't enough if it doesn't know your address."

I didn't go but I may have to visit our forty-ninth state as a member of the Rivers and Harbors Committee.

The purpose of our little junket will be to sound the Atlantic ocean from New York to Liverpool. We will decide whether to dredge it deeper of fill it in.

and will use the money toward his education.

The seventh prize of $150 goes to Arthur W. Rogers of 22 James st., Lynn, engineer at the Lynn General Electric Co. plant. His family, including three daughters, live in Plymouth while he rooms in Lynn, and it was to chase away lonesomeness that he began the Game of Check. He will use the money toward Easter finery for the girls.

UNEMPLOYED MAN WINS

Winner of the eighth prize, $100, is Bernard Snyder of 19 Nightingale st., Dorchester, who is an accountant and single.

In ninth place, also winning $100, comes Jacob Schneider of 3 Wales st., Dorchester, who can use the money because he is an unemployed bookkeeper. He is waiting to be called in the draft, and with his birthday arriving April 1 he considers this an advance birthday gift.

The 10th prize winner, who likewise receives $100, is Herbert B. Sinniger of 37 Howard st., Melrose, a magician. But it was his wife's magic which brought him the money. She urged him to enter the Game of Check.

Brockton, but he found a tiny apartment in the home of another Brockton woman, and there he lives alone with "Boo Boo."

Formerly a steady reader and now owner of 4000 books and countless magazines, yet he must be careful not to read too much, because of his eyes.

Beside his bed he has arranged cubicles for his radio, his writing materials (he has written considerably on technical subjects), for his infrequently used pipe and for his other articles.

He gets out of bed only to prepare an infrequent meal for himself and "Boo Boo." The tiger cat goes in and out by himself.

Leighter refused to believe at first that he had won the top prize. He had risen to admit his callers. When they told him he sat down suddenly on the bed. Then he dropped his head back on the pillow.

"There must be a misake," he said softly. "It isn't true."

He was assured, however, that it was true.

BRITISH BLOCKADE MAY COST ITALY DODECANESE ISLANDS

By LARRY ALLEN

WITH THE BRITISH BATTLE FLEET OFF CRETE, March 26 (AP)—Bombardment and blockade are expected by the British to cost Italy her Dodecanese Islands, where Italian garrisons already face serious shortages of food and war supplies.

The 12 rocky islands, strung out like pieces in an unfinished jigsaw puzzle off the Aegean coast of Turkey, have been cut off from Italy for months by the British fleet.

The more important islands of Rhodes, Leros and Scarpanto, from whose bomber and submarine bases Premier Mussolini had expected to strike at Egypt and Greece, have been bombed heavily, and the British navy gave Scarpanto one severe shelling.

Serious shortages of gasoline and war supplies on the islands were given by the British as one reason for the dwindling in the past few months of Italian air attacks upon the middle east.

The British have shown no disposition to rush a cleanup of the islands by landings, however, taking the position that blockade would starve out the Fascist forces.

They said morale of the garrisons had been lowered steadily, accentuated by Greek and British successes in Albania and Libya. Greek refugees from the islands were quoted as saying talk of revolt was spreading among the Greek population, which outnumbers Italians on the islands 12 to one.

The Dodecanese islansd belongad to Turkey until 1912, when, during the Tripolitanian war, Italian forces seized them in a single battle, aided by native islanders, who hoped for autonomy.

Turkey formally ceded the Dodecanese, and a 13th island, Castelrosso, to Italy in 1924.

Berlin Raid Damage Heavy, British Say

LONDON, March 26 (AP)—An economic warfare ministry official said today that in British raids on Berlin in December and January bombs penetrated to underground railways. Another blew the roof off a movie theater, he said.

The official also declared hits were made on a "very important" railway junction, causing "considerable dislocation."

He said the Berlin police presidency and law courts were damaged, the top floors of the midely known Wertheim department stores burned out and damage done to a number of industrial plants.

The heaviest damage, the official said, was at Mannheim, where main docks were hit, barges sunk, traffic blocked and engineering shops destroyed.

He said he understood the damage to war factories ran into millions of marks.

Berlin Acclaims Japanese Chief

BERLIN, March 26 (AP)—Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka arrived at 6 p. m. today for discussions which German commentators said will make the three-power pact a more effective instrument for organizing the "new order" in Europe and the Far East.

Matsuoka's train from Moscow drew into Anhalter Station at twilight.

Streets had been blocked off and tens of thousands of citizens were on hand to give him a wild greeting.

Dies Sees Shipping Strike Over Bridges

By COLE E. MORGAN
Special to Boston American

WASHINGTON, March 26—Leaders of the National Maritime Union have agreed to call a general shipping strike if Harry Bridges, Pacific Coast leader of the union, is ordered deported, Rep. Martin Dies (D.) of Texas, chairman of the committee investigating un-American and subversive activities, informed the House yesterday.

At the same time Rep. Joe Starnes, (Democrat), of Alabama, vice-chairman of the committee, gave the House further light on the Communist influence behind the strike of the Diecasters' Union at the Harvill Manufacturing Co. in Ingleside, Cal., creating a production bottleneck affecting practically the entire aircraft industry on the Pacific Coast.

Starnes produced a long criminal record of Ralph Dawson, CIO head in Los Angeles, and Bridges "right hand man there, a member of the Harvill strike committee.

Both unions are affiliated with the CIO.

RAPS FORD PLANT REDS

Simultaneously with these disclosures, Clare E. Hoffman (R.) of Michigan charged in a House speech that the CIO for months has been spending vast sums to create disaffection among employes of the Ford Motor Co.; that certain New York financiers have been attempting to take over the Ford Co.; that the federal government, through Sidney Hillman, associate national defense chief, and the NLRB, has been seeking to destroy the Ford Co., and that they have all been working in combination with the Communist party. He accused Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins of shielding alien Communist agitators.

On the heels of these developments, Rep. Mary T. Norton (D.) of New Jersey, chairman of the House labor committee, an avowed friend of organized labor, warned labor leaders and employers that unless strikes and labor troubles in defense industries were stopped anti-strike legislation cannot be prevented.

REVEALS STRIKE THREAT

In bringing the maritime strike threat to the attention of the House, Dies said:

"I have just received reliable information that National Maritime Union leaders have definitely agreed to call a general strike in the event that Hary Bridges is ordered deported. Because of the seriousness of this threat, I desire to place in the record the record of the National Maritime Union, a completely dominated Communist organization.

"The National Maritime Union has its roots in the Marine Workers Industrial Union.. The Marine Workers Industrial Union was one of the affiliated organizations in the Trade Union Unity League, which has an out-and-out Communist affiliate. The TUUL was headed by William Z. Foster and was affiliated with Ded International Labor Unions, with headquarters in Moscow.

"Again I call upon the Administration and upon responsible labor leaders and upon industrialists to take immediate action to expel from their ranks and their employment those who are no more nor less than the agents of foreign powers determined to sabotage our national defense.

"The Maritime Workers Industrial Union never sought to conceal its connections with the Communist Party and other Communist-controlled groups."

Driver Pays For Milk Stolen To Douse Blaze

LANSING, Mich., March 26 (AP)—A resourceful and honest motorist rapped on the door and handed Mrs. David P. Dixon 25 cents.

He explained, Mrs. Dixon said, that it was to pay her for "a quart of milk I stole from your porch. My car caught fire yesterday and I needed something wet in a hurry. It did the trick."

Ad Club Hears Breckenridge

Newspaper readers do not look upon advertising as an intrusion, but definitely read advertisements just as much for information about products and services as for other news.

This was the viewpoint of Wilder Breckenridge, sales manager of the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers' Ass'n, expressed in an address before the Boston Advertising Club, celebrating the 250th anniversary of newspapers in America at the Hotel Statler.

Introduced by Ernest Hoftyzer, advertising director of the Boston American-Daily Record, the guest speaker discussed the subject, "More for Your Advertising Money." E. E. Leason, president of the club, presided.

The principal portion of the address was devoted to the department store phase of advertising, emphasizing the reader interest of women in that special field.

"Since many women read more than one newspaper, the country's collective department store advertising is read by 52,701,000 women, and this does not include girls," the speaker asserted.

The speaker concluded by advising that the newspaper is an indispensable part of successful retailing and performs an invaluable service for advertisers.

Town Lock-up Goes Over to WPA

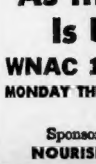
MIDDLETON, March 26 (AP) Business has been so bad that the town lock-up, by order of the selectmen, was turned over to the WPA today to store tree-moth exterminator equipment. The two-celled hoosegow has been unused for five year.

"A TEACHER shouldn't have dates or dance or smoke—can I be a good teacher—and a woman too?"



So wonders Andrea Reynolds in the living story of a teacher's life and love—

12 STRIKES BY 64,350 MEN DUE TO BREAK

WASHINGTON, March 26 (INS)—With strike violence and bloodshed on the increase, the OPM today submitted a confidential report to the new National Mediation Board showing that more strikes, involving 64,350 workers in 12 key national defense plants, may break out at any moment to tie up millions of dollars in Army and Navy contracts.

Impending strikes listed in the OPM's confidential report, together with the number of employes affected, unions involved and the nature of defense contracts, follow:

Bethlehem Shipbuilding, Quincy, Mass., 4000 workers, CIO, navy ships; Bethlehem Steel, Johnstown, Pa., 17,000 workers, CIO, steel; Frost Gear and Forge, Jackson, Mich., 800 workers, AFL, Army truck gears; Kellogg Switchboard and Supply, Chicago, 500 workers, AFL, Army Signal Corps equipment; Nevada Consolidated Copper, 1850 workers, AFL, copper; Pacific Coast Drydocks Ass'n, California, 3600 workers, AFL, Navy ships; Republic Aircraft Products, Detroit, 400 workers, CIO, airplane engine parts; E. H. Sheldon & Co., Muskegon, Mich., 400 workers, AFL, arsenal machinery; Sullivan Machine Co., Michigan City, Ind., 400 workers CIO, Army machine tools and drills.

Westinghouse Airbrake, Wilmerding, Pa., 4400 workers, CIO, Army booster brakes; Westinghouse Electric and Mfg., Pittsburgh, 30,000 workers, CIO, Army and Navy electrical equipment; Youngstown Sheet and Tool, Chicago, 1000 workers, CIO, steel.

Walworth Strike Settlement Near

Greater Boston's labor troubles subsided today with announcement a compromise settlement was near in a strike that has tied up defense production at the Walworth Manufacturing Co., South Boston, since Monday.

Officials of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration reported CIO Union representatives of the 700 striking employes had agreed to split the difference in a demand for a pay increase from 45 to 62 cents an hour.

They said a scheduled conference between union and company representatives was delayed until later today to await arrival from New York of the company's president, H. B. Colton, Jr.

Bethlehem Men In Buffalo Vote

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 26 (INS)—A sympathy strike at the mammoth Lackawanna plant of the Bethlehem Steel Company, the second within a few weeks, was threatened by Steel Workers Organizing Committee leaders today to reinforce the current walkout at the parent plant in Bethlehem, Pa., which threatens extension to the Johnstown, Pa., plant.

Lorne H. Nelles of the SWOC summoned a mass meeting of the Lackawanna workers for tomorrow night to take an official sympathy strike vote

New Picket Line Planned By Bethlehem Strikers

picketing as soon as we possibly can."

NEW CLASH FEARED

To their previous four points the strikers added a fifth today—"The company must agree to honest recognition of collective bargaining."

In the previous four the strikers demanded that they be permitted to return to work without loss of seniority, the company rule out the employes representation plan (an election in which brought about the strike), the company agree to a labor board decision holding the ERP a company union (the ERP has an appeal in the federal courts to that pronouncement), and the company agree to a labor board election.

Until the state troopers moved in and smashed the picket line and dispersed the crowds at the plant, a line of 10 pickets had been permitted at each gate.

Riffe's statement indicated that the union would not be bound by any tacit or oral agreement and would make every attempt to regain the footing it lost through the action of the troopers.

Taken at full value, his statement indicated that trouble might be shaping up again as it did last night.

100 AUTOS WRECKED

A survey of the plant area showed more than 100 automobiles overturned and wrecked in the disturbance last night.

Starting early today workers began to drift into the plant and by noon heavy machinery could be heard running in the plant.

No exact estimate of the number who returned to work was available. However, at least 500 went through the main gate and another 200 to 500 were reported to have entered the other gates.

Organized picketing was ended for the time being by the police action but small detachments of strikers occasionally passed the plant on the opposite sidewalk

CHICAGO, March 26 (AP)—Employes went to work at the strike-troubled International Harvester McCormick works today without trouble.

A. F. of L. men and other non-strikers entered the gates without molestation, although several hundred CIO strikers jeered.

Seven hundred policemen had little to do.

Bethlehem Plants Here Expect No Strike

Officials of Boston and Quincy shipyards of Bethlehem Steel said today they did not expect work here would be affected by the strike at the parent plant in Bethlehem, Pa.

William H. Collins, Fore River general manager, pointed out that most of the parts used here are made at the Sparrows Point, Md., plant.

JOHNSTOWN WALKOUT DELAYED

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 26 (INS)—Threatened walkout of the CIO steel workers' organizing committee in the Cambria works of Bethlehem Steel Co. today failed to materialize, momentarily at least, as Employes Representation Plan leaders hesitated holding a scheduled election within the plant.

Foster Jones, ERP committee chairman on rules, declared reports the election had been postponed indefinitely, said:

"If it is possible to hold a peaceful election without precipitating trouble, we will put out the ballot boxes. The company has given us permission to hold the election and a big majority of the employes want to hold it."

Thousands of steelworkers streamed into the mills at 7 a. m. looking for ERP ballot boxes which it had been announced would be there for those who wanted to participate in the voting.

James B. Gent, SWOC sub-regional director, warned.

"Our men start walking out if one ERP ballot box is in evidence . . . there'll be no more of those Hitlerized elections in Johnstown."

70 N. Y. Ship Workers Migrate To Neponset Jobs

NEW YORK, March 26 (INS)—The first organized migration of skilled workers from one state to another in order to staff defense industries was under way today.

Seventy workers, shipfitters, chippers and caulkers, gathered together by the New York state employment service, left for Neponset, Mass., to take jobs.

The men, who departed by bus under a plan for the migration of defense workers organized 10 days ago, will be employed in the Lawley & Son Shipbuilding Corp.

'The Sea Wolf' Moves to Paramount-Fenway Screens

Ida Lupino Cops Starring Honors

"The Sea Wolf," which has been moved from the Keith's at the Metropolitan to the Paramount-Fenway twin screens, is a swell picture.

Edward G. Robinson, Ida Lupino and John Garfield are starred in Warner film adaptation of the famous Jack London novel of a lot of characters on a schooner and the way they behave in important positions in the drama that ensues.

Mr. Robinson plays the wolf, a fiendish sea captain, and Ida Lupino is a San Francisco girl who comes to grief with the scoundrel. Garfield is a poignancy and honesty to the character of the hero.

From recent passage supporting cast are Gene Lockhart, Barry Fitzgerald, Alexander Knox, Stanley Ridges and Francis McDonald. Michael Curtiz directed.

The companion picture, "Here Comes Happiness," teams Edward Norris, Mildred Coles and Richard Ainsley.

EDWARD G. ROBINSON in "The Sea Wolf," film verson of the famous Jack London story, which has moved to Paramount and Fenway twin screens.

'Fantasia' Now In 3d Month

The artist who created alluring Cleo the goldfish for Walt Disney's "Pinocchio," was given a chance to do even more along the same line when the time came to hand out work on Disney's controversial music feature, "Fantasia" now in its third month at the Majestic.

For the pictorial interpretation of the Dance Arabe in Tchaikovsky's beautiful "Nutcracke Suite," is set as an underwater ballet performed by exotic goldfish. The ballet and the dim mysterious surroundings are remindful of a dance by veiled harem beauties.

"I will take on anybody that tries to tell me goldfish don't have any personality," declares the Disney goldfish authority, "They've done all right by me."

Lauder Still Very Much Alive

Since Sir Harry Lauder has been delighting audiences from the Fine Arts Theater screen in his only motion picture, "Song of the Road," newspaper reference-rooms have been besieged with inquiries as to whether he is dead.

The answer is no, a thousand times no. He is as alive as he appears on the screen and living in his native Scotland where he recently achieved the noble age of 71. Seemingly ageless, the world-famous Scotish comedian is entertaining Fine Art audiences with his lovable performance which he speaks up with song every now and then. He sings six of his celebrated ditties, "Rose O' The House," "January," "M'Allister," "I Had To Get Wed In the Summertime," "We A' Go Home The Same Way" and "The End of The Road."

Rounding out the screen program are the latest March of Time, Walt Disney's "Donald Duck" and the most recent newsreels.

Wollcott Called Best Amateur Actor

Writing of Alexander Woollcott, who is appearing in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" in Philadelphia, the New York Times' Brooks Atkinson says: "As an amateur actor the Town Crier is America's best. Kep him in a recumbent position and he is thoroughly entertaining."

Bar Harbor Shown In So. Station Film

It's June in March on the South Station Theater screen where Graham McNamee takes his audience on a tour of Bar Harbor, swank summer haunt of millionaires. The beautiful Rockefeller, Ford and Kent estates are just a few of the magnificent places shown as well as the town's fishing industry.

Play's Shocks Eased in Movie

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Seems like they hadn't ought to show such shiftlessness," quietly observed the motherly, white-haired woman next to your reviewer as we came to the end of "Tobacco Road" yesterday at Keith-Memorial.

Which neatly capsules to you what has happened to that sensationally shocking theatrical perennial (it's in its eight year on Broadway) having to do with lecherous, larcenous, morally lopsided poor white trash since it passed the Hays office sanitation test.

Deloused it's devitalized, and what remains of Jack Kirkland's play adaptation of Erskine Caldwell's bitter, strangely humorous, curiously touching saga of Georgia crackers is an expensively produced, excellently photographed broad comedy.

"MAYBE NEXT WEEK"

True, John Ford's direction has brought out with striking effect the hopeless frustration of these people. Here you realize their appalling shiftlessness and lack of a sense of values as you see young Dude Lester's new car dented and mud-bespattered after one day's use.

Again, the camera shows you the neglected hovel they live in, Ada Lester's folded hands acceptance of its squalor and Jeeter's "maybe next week" attitude about the planting.

Charley Grapewin, who inevitably turns out fine acting jobs, has done another fine characterization in Jeeter Lester, a shrewd lazybones with a lively sense of humor who wheedles instead of works.

As his dour wife, Ada, Elizabeth Patterson realizes the hopelessness of her situation with what equanimity she can command.

BRIEF SPEAKING ROLE

Quite surprising is the disposition 20th Century-Fox has made of the talents of Broadway's stage discovery and glamour girl, Gene Tierney.

As the quarter-witted Ellie May (and minus the deformed lip, thank goodness) she merely has to say "No, Maw" and "Ah, gimme some carrots, Lov," managing to look seductive and in a much more ladylike way than the stage's Ellie Mays, tsch, tsch!

Marjorie Rambeau's Sister Bessie is almost wholesome, William Tracy's Dude gave us the jitters and Ward Bond, Spencer Charters, Grant Mitchell and Russell Simpson handled their chores competently.

For the second feature, we have Dr. Christian (Jean Hersholt) doing his good deed for attractive Fay Wray in 'Melody for Three."

GENE TIERNEY and Ward Bond in "Tobacco Road" which has started unreeling on the Keith-Memorial screen.

Clyde McCoy At Keith Boston

Bringing his sweet and hot music, Clyde McCoy and his Sugar Blues Orchestra comes to the RKO Boston tomorrow for a week's stage engagement. On the screen will be shown "Sleepers West," co-starring Lloyd Noland and Lynn Bari.

In the musical world, McCoy ranks with the best as a trumpet man. With him will be his featured specialists, the Bennett Sisters, who sing and dance; Dick Lee, singer, and Benny Ross and Maxine Stone. The latter twosome present "The Life of the Party," with Miss Stone subbing as a female Stepin Fetchit. Bob Howard, "ambassador of rhythm," and Ruthie Barnes, tapster, are others on the bill.

Noland again doubles as the fast-talking Michael Shayne, detective, in "Sleepers West." Miss Bari is cast as a reporter,

Woman Named Trustee Of Boston Psychopathic

Appointment of Mrs. Evelyn E. Herbert, of Baybury rd., Squantum, as a trustee of the Boston Psychopathic Hospital was submitted to the executive council today by Gov. Saltonstall.

The wife of Dr. Charles J. Herbert, a dentist, Mrs. Herbert is the mother of two sons and has long been active in civic affairs. If confirmed by the council, she will succeed Monroe Kaplan, resigned.

Other appointments were: William T. Woodrow of Orange as a master in chancery. He is married and the father of five children with a law practice in Athol and Orange. Also Frank McKay of Holyoke, who was reappointed as a public administrator.

With representatives of Hyde Park clergy, civic organizations and the Board of Trade offering their support, the legislative committe on constitutional law today opened hearings on a bill prohibiting broadcasting of advertising by alcoholic beverage concerns.

Officials of radio concerns appearing in opposition to the proposed bill described the measure as definitely discriminatory and grossly unfair to a particular business.

More than 500 nurses today crowded Gardner Auditorium to back speakers before the legislative committee on staet legislation endorsing a bill proposing to set up an all-nurse board to replace the present board of registration.

A board of five nurses nurses would be set up consisting of at least eight year graduates from a school of nursing, one of whom would be a superintendent of a hospital having a school of nursing. The present board consists of two doctors and three nurses.

Rep. Leslie B. Cutler of Needham urged the committee on public welfare to approve her bill for the licensing of private homes and schools caring for dull or mentally retarded children.

---

County commissioners and sheriffs appeared before the committee on civil service to oppose a bill placing officers of counties having prisoners under their charge under civil service. Spokesmen called attention to a bill providing for tenure before the committee on counties.

Council Refuses To O. K. Parker

Gov. Saltonstall today suffered his first defeat at the hands of his Democratic - controlled executive council when the council, by a five-to-four vote, rejected the appointment of Frederick Parker of Westfield as member of the state emergency finance board.

Parker, president of the United States Whip Co. and heavy contributor to Republican campaign funds, was named last week, but confirmation was held up on the motion of Councillor Daniel M. Walsh, Jr.

Walsh said the post should be filled by a Democrat, sine it had bene made vacant by the death of Daniel Doherty of Westfield, a Democrat.

The Governor resubmitted Parker's name.

Councilor James A. Donovan of Lawrence voted with teh Republicans (Donovan is a Democrat) to approve appointment of Frederick L. Cookson of Framingham as member of the state board of funeral directors and embalmers.

Cookson's appointment was up last week on motion of Councillor Edmund Burke of Worcester.

Daniel A. O'Malley was confirmed as member of the state board of registration in chiropody.

Fish More Plentiful, Yet Price Is Higher

Fish in the Boston market was more plentiful during February than in the same month a year ago, and it brought higher prices, too.

The receipts last month were 22,425,253 pounds, compared to 21,779,645 pounds in February, 1939. The fishermen received 3.54 cents per pound average as compared to 3.62 cents average a year ago.

Treasure Trove Sale Friday

IF YOU'VE HAD a longing for an old pair of silver candlesticks, a very special antique gold bracelet, or even a well thumbed leather bound volume of your favorite poems, there's a chance you might find them in the Treasure Trove—a special corner in the annual Rummage Sale to be held at Horticultural Hall, Friday, for the benefit of the Girl Scouts . . .

The Treasure Trove will be devoted to extra special articles donated for the sale—items too good to be called white elephants or rummage . . .

Proceeds of the sale will be used for the maintenance of Treasure Island, the Scouts' summer camp on Lake Winnepesaukee, and is being arranged by such loyal workers as Mrs. Kingbury Browne, Mrs. A. Barr Comstock, Mrs. Gerald Henderson, Mrs. Valentine Hollingsworth, Mrs. Leland Powers and many others.

THE Massachusetts Legislature's Joint Judiciary Committee considers an important bill today.

The bill, sponsored by Mr. Joseph P. Harrington of Salem, seeks to permit juries to recommend life or death in first degree murder cases.

That such a request is necessary will surprise thousands of Bay State people.

It will probably also surprise some members of the Judiciary Committee.

The popular belief has been that juries enjoyed this power all along.

Few persons supposed that our traditionally progressive State could be so backward.

The truth, however, is, that Massachusetts law does NOT permit juries to say whether an individual convicted of first degree murder shall spend his life behind bars or die in the electric chair.

With grim finality, the present statute ordains DEATH.

---

BECAUSE THIS IS SO, arguments prepared by the Massachusetts Council for Abolition of the Death Penalty will interest most people—the woman in the home as much as the man who represents his community in the Legislature.

The Council gives us these pertinent facts:

The late Benjamin Cardozo, associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, stated on frequent occasions that he could not tell the dividing line between first and second degree murder, ALTHOUGH HE HAD STUDIED THE MATTER CAREFULLY.

Yet Massachusetts expects twelve jurymen, none of whom are lawyers, to make that distinction in every capital case!

Only four other States require the death penalty with no alternative. They are Connecticut, New Mexico, North Carolina and Vermont.

Thirty-six States and the Federal Government allow the discretionary penalties of life or death in first degree murder convictions.

And seven States, including Maine and Rhode Island in New England, have ended executions altogether.

---

EXTENSIVE STUDY has convinced the Council for Abolition of the Death Penalty that there are more convictions in States where juries have authority to find a defendant "guilty" without sending him to the gallows or electric chair.

Sometimes a Massachusetts judge will instruct the jury to find a first degree verdict or none. A guilty man may then go free.

For if a juror has the slightest suspicion that a prisoner might be innocent, he is very apt to give prisoner the fullest benefit of doubt.

Furthermore, juries frequently return second degree and "life" verdicts, although the murder was intentional and would ordinarily be called first degree.

It is well known that some Massachusetts counties never have first degree verdicts—a situation which, as the Council observes, is "contrary to the present law," besides being arbitrary and unfair.

Also, in almost identical cases in Massachusetts, some defendants are put to death, while others are given life or set free.

---

IT IS VERY LIKELY that the burden of the prosecutor would be greatly relieved if he were not required to persuade the jury to bring in a verdict of first degree, WITH DEATH AS THE ONLY PENALTY.

Court costs and expensive delays would be reduced because there are apt to be more pleas of "guilty" with alternative laws.

Juries would be more easily impanelled; acquittals and disagreements reduced in number, and bargaining for lesser penalty by the guilty decreased.

The juror's duty is a difficult one and for sensitive persons a most unattractive one.

If he is not absolutely sure that an accused person committed a murder, the juror is often inclined to compromise with his conscience by saying:

"I am almost positive that the prisoner did kill in the manner the evidence indicates.

"But I am not so positive that I would wager everything I possess on the fact that he is the guilty party.

"If I vote for a first degree verdict, the prisoner will die in the electric chair.

"Then if his innocence is proven at a later date, it will be too late to rectify my error.

"For this reason, I am going to favor a second degree verdict and, if I cannot get that, I shall vote 'not guilty.'"

The revision of the law to permit juries to recommend life or death would prevent such miscarriages of justice.

It is also worth while to remember that lifers are the best prisoners in Massachusetts. No lifer has ever killed a guard, and no pardoned lifer has committed a second murder.

I AM a little late in getting started turning out this deathless prose today. I have been trying to read the future with an egg. Somebody sent in a book on how to read the future with eggs so I thought I would try the idea out. The book said you must first hold the egg over a glass for five minutes and concentrate on what you want to know. After that you stick a pin in the egg and let out the white part and from the way this settles in the glass you read the future. What I wanted to know was: "Will Bull Reigh win the Kentucky Derby?" Well, sir, I was concentrating on this and holding the egg over the glass when my girl friend came in the kitchen and said: "What in the world are you doing standing there with an egg in your hand and a silly look on your face?" This interruption threw me all off my concentrating. But I am going to try again tomorrow. Maybe I should start reading the future with tea leaves and work up to eggs.

PLEASE NOTE: That sometimes women are in the mood for love, and sometimes are not is well known. But now one expert on love states men have moods for love. And that a woman who wishes to succeed in love and marriage should not annoy a man with love when he wants to discuss the European situation, his business or what he thinks of the income tax. Keep that in mind, young woman . . . Young matron of Roseville, Mich., says her birthday is March 8 and their wedding anniversary date is March 8 and asks: "Isn't that unusual?" Very unusual, ma'am. -:- MY DAY

"HOBCAW," Georgetown, S. C., Tuesday—We left Washington yesterday in the rain, but gradually the sky above us became blue and we were flying over those white, fleecy looking clouds which make you wish you were in an open plane and could jump down to them! They look like the most delectable kind of feather bed and always remind me of the enormous feather bed I once slept on in Oberammergau, years and years ago.

It was my first experience with the genuine article and I was a little appalled by it. But I found it warm and comfortable and decided that like so many other things in life, it was only because it was new that I doubted its acceptability.

Our hair or cotton mattresses with plain wool blankets, must seem strangely hard and uninviting to the uninitiated!

Even the fleecy clouds left us before we reached Charleston, and we could see clearly the alternating open fields and woods below us. In Charleston, Mr. Bernard Baruch and his daughter, Miss Belle Baruch, met us and we reached "Hobcaw" in time for a cup of tea and a stroll around the grounds before dinner.

A LONG TIME we sat on the porch and watched the squirrels. A little black spaniel, though he seemed to be fairly well trained, was safely shut indoors and then the peanuts were thrown out to attract the gray squirrels.

First one ran down the big live oak tree in front of us, and sat up looking around until the sound of the nuts falling on the porch made him draw nearer. Gradually, from every tree, more squirrels appeared until eight or ten darted up and seized the particular nut he had seen, or chased one of the others away.

Even if there is plenty for all, apparently the rather human trait of wanting what your neighbor has is strong in the animal world also. The little squirrels wanted each other's peanuts, even more than they wanted those lying on the ground which they could have for the taking.

---

MOSS WAVES from the branches of the trees. Those through which we approached the house and immediately around it, are some of the most beautiful old trees I have seen.

Even though we drove through some swampy land, this place seems to me a friendly, cheerful place, lacking that eerie quality which I find often prevalent in southern landscape.

This is a peaceful place and I can well understand that a busy man would find not only relaxation, but an opportunity to rebuild depleted energies here and to start out again with a sense of having drawn strength from close proximity to the calmness and wisdom of nature.

DRAMATISTS' GUILD: Private Sidney Kingsley, the Pulitzer Prize winner, has won the respect of his colleagues at Fort Jay for the following reasons, in the order of their importance: (1) He's cleaned up in every dice game they've had. (2) He did two days K. P. duty for being late to morning drill. (3) Although he's had ROTC training and is a college graduate—thus eligible for a commission—he has refused to apply for it . . . Kingsley explains it: "I like being back with my Dead End boys" . . . His wife, Madge Evans, is surprised at his newly-acquired toughness. "I'm married to a tough buck private," she reports, "and I thought I married a sensitive playwright."

The prize essayist will receive $500.

TWO MORE RESIGNATIONS are expected to deplete U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon's staff . . . C. Keefe Hurley, whose resignation was announced recently, has already joined a Boston law firm . . . Asst. Henry M. Leen is slated to join the law firm of Brandon and Burns, according to reports current in the Federal Building.

ASST. ROBERT W. MESERVE is the other reported departing member of the staff . . . He will enter private practice in Boston, also, reports have it . . . Post Office sq. scouts will not be surprised if Joe White, member of the Boston School Committee and a state jobholder at the same time, completes an unique record by enlistment on the Federal payroll (to succeed either Mr. Leen or Mr. Meserve)—thus attaining complete coverage of municipal, state and government public service.

MR. WHITE CONFERRED for more than an hour with Mr. Brandon on Monday . . . If Mr. White does join the Brandon staff, political wiseacres would not be surprised if the next step in the White career would be his candidacy for Mayor of Boston.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Clee O'Hara, who fought shoulder to shoulder with her late husband, Walter J. O'Hara, in the "Battle of Proxies" at the Narragansett race-track, will be the major winner under the O'Hara will . . . A huge insurance policy named her as beneficiary in spite of the fact that Walter had married again after they were divorced.

AND FROM STANLEY WILLIS, who has headquarters now in the Canal Zone, news comes that Mr. O'Hara was dickering for distribution of parking meters for three Central American countries (Panama, Costa Rica and Caracas Venezuela), just before he died.

BOSTON COLLEGE IS SAID to have offered Marchmont Schwartz, former Notre Dame All-America, an annual wage of $5000 a year to quit Stanford, where he coaches the backfield, and come to Boston as Denny Meyer's aide . . . (It sounds unlikely).

COLONEL EGAN AND HIS LADY returned from Notre Dame, by the way, chanting praises for Frank Leahy . . . The Colonel did a fairly competent job of expressing his admiration for the former Boston College mentor in print, but one episode which the Colonel probably considered too personal for his own professional use is being told all listeners by the enthusiastic sports writer.

IT SEEMS THAT MRS. EGAN, the former Verda Fitzgerald of Agawam, has been a Notre Dame rooter since she wore pigtails . . . Head Coach Leahy, who had been tipped by Colonel Egan of his bride's membership in the Notre Dame "subway alumni," conducted an interview with the Egans by first placing Mrs. Egan in the chair once occupied by the immortal Rockne . . . The Colonel thinks this bit of thoughtfulness indicates the caliber, or "class" of Mr. Leahy.

GIVEN ARMY LEAVE TO MAKE FILM

By Louella O. Parsons

Robert Donat

HOLLYWOOD, March 26—Robert Donat, who hasn't made an American picture since his Academy winning "Goodbye Mr. Chips," has been excused from the British army long enough to do a movie for Darryl Zanuck in London.

The story, "Pitt the Younger," by Lord Castleross just cried for Donat and when Sidney Gilliat, who wrote the script of "Goodbye Mr. Chips," prepared the treatment he wrote it with Donat in mind. Put there were countless obstacles which fortunately Robert Kane former foreign head of 20th, was able to overcome. He was also able to sign Carol Reed, the director of the unforgettable "Night Train."

GRACIE FIELDS

"Pitt the Younger" deals with the son of William Pitt, who, with his father was a famous British statesman and it's a movie that will delight the heart of the English.

• • •

OFFERS GALORE have been made to Gracie Fields to appear in the movies, but always she has refused because of her work for Great Britain. But now Lester Cowan has hopes that Gracie will play one of the top roles in "Brighton Rock," the popular book by Graham Greene.

Ida Lupino, who has signed to do "Ladies in Retirement" for Lester and Gilbert Miller, is one of the best examples I know of how one picture can elevate a player to better and bigger figures. Ida was paid $10,000 for playing in "They Drive By Night"—and glad to get it.

If she does "Brighton Rock" she will receive $75,000 and Lester has every hope she will make the picture with her husband, Louis Hayward.

• • •

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Barbara Hutton at the "I Wanted Wings" preview with Connie Moore. She made Hymie Fink happy by posing for a picture; Ginger Rogers and Garson Kanin dining tete-a-tete and talking so earnestly; John Ford's pretty debutante daughter, Barbara, stepping out with Herbert Gunn, 20th Century-Fox good looker.

Christy Walsh given a rousing welcome home by many friends at the Johnathan Club. Some of our movie actors would do well to take a few lessons in diction from Lawyer Joseph Scott, who has the gift of oratory.

Thrilling to hear Connie Mack, baseball veteran, tell of the old days; Eddie Lowe at the Rhum-Boogie with Sally Allen, who once was escorted hither and yon by John Barrymore; and Gwynn and Red Christie, of Universal, keeping the telephone busy.

Roy Rogers has fifty homing pigeons at his ranch and I can promise him he will have twice that many in a year. Blanche Ring, famous stage actress, reaches here to visit Mrs. Thomas Meighan and resume acquaintance with her many friends.

Wonder what that inscription is that George Raft put in Betty Grable's cigarette case?

• • •

BOTH LYNN FONTANNE and Alfred Lunt were decidedly movie conscious when they were in Hollywood. I talked with each one of them and they never before had been so eager to make a picture and to spend a few months in California where they have so many friends.

I heard today, through the grapevine route, that Warners have opened negotiations with them for the rights to their play, "There Shall Be No Night," in which of course they would be starred.

If the deal goes through practically all the members of their company, including Richard Whorf, will play in the picture, so I suppose you would call this a package deal, since everything but the director goes with it.

• • •

THE PHYSICAL QUALITY of Veronica Lake, so evident in "I Wanted Wings," is to be emphasized in "China Pass," Jacques Thery's story bought for her today by Buddy de Sylva. Veronica, discovered by Arthur Hornblow, who saw her in one of the local stock companies, will play a tough American girl stranded in China.

Although she does not come under the heading of glamor, in some ways she is like Jean Harlow but I don't think she is as pretty. She does, however, portray very well indeed the hard, rather common little girl that Jean characterized so well. Veronica, of course, needs experience but so did Jean after her first appearance in "Hell's Angels."

The Cadet Captain

By Sanford Jarrell

BOB STANWYCK and I were talking in his private office when Dorothy stuck her head through the door and said, "Benson's here to see you, Major." Bob said, "Send him in," and a young army officer with the gold bar of a second lieutenant walked into the room.

He was about 22 and looked well in his regulation barracks "pinks," olive drab blouse with Sam Browne belt, and smart Army cap. He was tall and slim with a freckled face, smiling blue eyes and a chin that was a bit on the pugnacious side. Bob returned his spruce salute, extended his hand and said, 'Glad to see you again, Benson,' and then he introduced me.

The Lieutenant and Bob chatted a few moments about commonplace things, such as how good it was to be back at the school again, and then Benson declined an invitation to mess.

"I've got to go right back, Major," he explained. "You see, it's come." There was a joyous light in his eyes. "I had to quit my job yesterday, and tonight I'm on my way to Ord."

"No cold feet, Benson?"

The young officer looked at him reproachfully.

"I'm happy, Major," he said. "You know how I've been waiting for this."

Then, as an afterthought, he told me that he had just received his orders to report for active duty to his regiment at Fort Ord, near Monterey. The youngster seemed every inch a military man. Bob gave him some sound and friendly advice and soon he was on his way.

"That young man," Bob said, "ought to go a long way in the army. He's cut out for it. Name strike you as kind of familiar, Harry?"

No, I had run across a number of Bensons in my time, didn't recall any of them particularly.

A HERO FATHER

"Don't you remember Corporal Benson?"

Of course I did. When Bob was commanding Battery A in France, and I was his more or less hard boiled top sergeant, we did have a man named Benson in the outfit, who served for a time as a corporal before the skipper had to bust him to private.

He was a hell-roaring soldier, that Benson, and a good one except when he got hold of some eau de vie or cognac, and then he was the very devil on wheels. He probably licked more M. P.'s than any man in the A. E. F., and got licked oftener by them. He beat me once, and I returned the compliment at another time—taking off my stripes on each sanguinary occasion.

And yet at Baulny Ridge, in the Argonne, he took over that captured German 77 when Sergeant Mahoney got winged and fired that baby back at the Krauts until the lanyard itself got too hot to handle. I'll never forget how he looked standing alone in front of the wrecked church at Varennes blazing away at a low-flying ship with his service pistol, and how Fritz made a return trip in a vain effort to get him. Now I knew who the young lieutenant was.

The Principal Characters In "Cadet Captain."

Jack Benson, son of a hell-raising hero of the World War, who goes to a military school. While he hates anything that even suggests discipline. But he loves to fight.

"Like a lot of these soldiers too full of gin and vinegar for their own good in the last war," Bob was saying. "Benson settled down. He was already married, you know; his boy was born while we were over there. We were up on the Verdun front, just before the Armistice; you may remember how he went AWOL to Souilly that night and got hold of some liquor for a real celebration.

"After I bought this military school," Bob Stanwyck continued, "Benson called on me. He'd seen my ad in one of the Los Angeles papers. He brought his wife and boy along too. The latter was just a little tyke then. Benson was in the insurance game at Long Beach and doing very well at it, too. Remember, he always had the gift of gab. He had gone on the wagon, of course. He had sense enough to know he had to, or face the police judge every week or two."

About eight years ago (Bob said) Benson came to me and he was troubled. His boy, almost 14, was in hot water all the time. Neither his parents nor his teachers could do anything with him. He was in bad company already. What he needed, Benson said, was military discipline, and he was too young to go into the Army.

"GO TO IT!"

I told him I wasn't running a reform school, I wouldn't admit bad boys and would ship them home pronto if they got in under false premises. But he pleaded so hard and I always had liked him, even when he caused me the most headaches, so I gave in.

The next day he brought the boy, Jack, with him, and the kid climbed out of a lavatory window. One of our cadet officers collared him, brought him back to the office, and I said to Benson, "We don't go in for corporal punishment here at all, but this boy needs a lesson," and he grinned and said, "Go to it, Captain." I took the 14-year-old man—into another room and gave him a sound strapping. It did the boy a world of good—for a day or so.

"I'd have shipped him home a dozen times that fall if he had been anybody else. He was bright enough, but wouldn't study. He hated drill. He piled up more demerits than any other cadet, and as a consequence was always on guard duty or doing hard labor. He had, however, several traits of character that indicated we might do something with him eventually. Remember how his father always admitted his wrongdoings? Well, Jack Benson wasn't a liar either. He was honest and he wasn't really bad, and I noticed that he was swell to the little boys in the Junior Barracks. He never bullied them and he never let them in on any of his pranks. He was always fighting and generally took a beating, for he picked on boys bigger than himself.

At the beginning of his second year here, the commandant of cadets came to me and said, "Major, I'm going to make Benson a corporal." That almost bowled me over, and Capt. Stoneburner hastily added, "I know you think I'm daffy, but something tells me he'll fill the bill."

I told Stoneburner that I thought Benson would be too big for his breeches as a sergeant, but that I hoped I was mistaken.

Well, Harry, you ought to have seen that kid's face when the new non-coms were read off at dress parade the next day. Sergeant of the first squad of the first platoon. That meant right guide of the whole cadet company, which is important when you think that he had to set the cadence in marching for the whole bunch, including the little six and seven-year-olds in the fourth platoon. A sergeant has other responsibilities here, too, relatively as many as a sergeant in the army has.

"I'LL SHOW YOU!"

I was standing beside the commandant, and I said, "Captain, the boy seems happy enough, but I don't think he took the trouble to learn the drill last year." He replied, "Oh, he learned it all right, but he thought it was smart to do the wrong thing at the right time. I'll show you."

Then he had the cadet officers put the company through its paces, and it was ragged work because most of the new boys had only had a few days experience with the intricacies of the manual of arms and infantry foot movements. The first sergeant took over, and did about as well, and Stoneburner called on Benson.

I know a crack drill sergeant when I see one; you do, too, Harry. Blakeley, in A Battery, for one. Well, Benson began giving commands in that crisp, military voice that seems born in some men, and which others, even colonels and generals, never are able to acquire.

This seemed to inspire the boys, too, even the smaller fellows, for they came to right shoulder arms with a snap I wouldn't have expected for another two months. It was by far the best exhibition of the afternoon.

Young Benson took his vacancy seriously in other ways, too. He applied himself to his studies. He carried himself more erectly. He didn't change overnight, of course. He picked up a considerable number of demerits for awhile once got so many he was fired to walk post as a private for a week, but at the same time himself for the shipshape way he kept his locker and school desk, the precise regulation manner in which he made his bed—these merits increased so they often outranced the demerits.

In January one of the cadet lieutenants was graduated and Captain Stoneburner called Benson in and offered him the commission. But, would you believe it, he declined. He merely said he thought that was pushing him too fast, and anyhow, Carter deserved it more. Carter was the first sergeant, a boy of 18 in the tenth grade. He had been in school seven years, a good boy, solid and substantial and a little dumb, and this was his last year here or in any school. Carter was given the commission and Benson was upped to top kick.

Of course at the beginning of Benson's third year he was made a cadet lieutenant and it was in the cards that in his last year he was captain. I've been here, Harry, since 1922, and we've had a lot of cadet captains in that time, but Jack Benson far outshone the lot. He made study of military science almost a fetish.

He could tell you offhand what Napoleon did at Marengo and Stonewall Jackson at Chancellorsville and Lee and Grant's maneuvers in the last year of the Civil War. When he finished the Tenth Grade—which is our limit here—he begged to be allowed to stay on, go to high school in town, and live at the school, and I let him do it. He had no official position with the cadet corps, wore civilian clothes, but he conducted an informal officers' school during the next two years that was such a success that I've kept it ever since.

A BORN SOLDIER

Then he went off to U. C. L. A., worked his way up to cadet major, won his commission in the reserves on his twenty-first birthday.

A few months later while driving from Los Angeles to San Francisco I dropped off at Fort Ord to see an old Army friend of mine, now a colonel. He was showing me about the place—well, as much as he could of the vast encampment during the brief hour I was there—when we approached a group of young officers who came stiffly to attention. One of them was Jack Benson, and he was wearing the silver bars of a first lieutenant. He had won his promotion already. He remembered me, and we chatted together a moment or two.

As we walked off, Colonel Gregg said, "That lieutenant, Benson, whom you seem to know, is probably the best informed young officer here. He's a born soldier."

I wonder what makes him a born soldier. Is it an inheritance from a hard-drinking, hell-raising A. E. F. soldier who feared neither man nor devil nor the Teutonic foe? Or his natural smartness as a boy despite a bent for mischief, satred of discipline and schooling? Or the youth's re-action on that day when he first sewed on sergeant's stripes? I think maybe it is a combination of all three. A born soldier is more apt to be a Tom Sawyer than a Little Lord Fauntleroy.

And Marriage

Realizes Her Mistake

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We saw each other every evening, and that must have been the reason we were getting on each other's nerves. It seemed impossible for us to spend an evening at home without arguing and it was the same when we went to the movies or to a dance.

When I couldn't stand it any longer I declared a moratorium and told my boy friend to stay away for six months and not try to get in touch with me. I didn't realize that I would be cutting off my nose to spite my face.

That was three months ago and the boy has done as I asked him. He hasn't called, written or phoned and I'm heartsick and miserable. He has been seen out with another girl, and I'm about ready to swallow my pride and crawl.

Have you any suggestions as to the best way of making up? I need your advice badly, Miss Fairfax, and hope you'll send it along. I've neglected to tell you we were practically engaged before this happened. FRANCES.

I shan't rub it in by telling you what a mistake it is to indulge yourself in a tantrum when it concerns someone about whom you really care. Why can't you write this young man a jolly little note and say, very frankly, that you've had enough of the moratorium and would like to see him again?

What of His Finances?

DEAR MRS. FAIRFAX:

Our wedding date has been set, and although we're to be married soon, my fiance has never mentioned the subject of money to me. We've known each other almost four years.

I feel as if I should know something about what we have to live on and how our budget is to be managed, before we marry. How can I get my husband-to-be to discuss these questions with me? It's beyond me. Would it be wise for me to bluntly put up the question as to our source of income, what we're to live on, whether we'll have a household budget, and if we are to try to save something?

KATHARINE.

One of the chief sources of unhappiness in married life is uncertainty about what's to pay the bills. It's most unwise for a young couple to assume the responsibilities of marriage without taking up this question of income. As your fiance has declined to follow up any of your leads on this most important subject, I hope you will bring it up without delay.

Perhaps you'd rather have your parents take it up with—but modern girls usually prefer to know these details first-hand. Meanwhile, if you will send me a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope I will be glad to send you a budget for a family of four living on $100 a month, or a little less for a family of two.

Recipes for Leftovers

By MARTHA LEE

"WILL YOU PLEASE tell me how to use up left-over smoked shoulder? There are so many things that my husband doesn't like, but he does like shoulder, and for that reason we have it quite often. However, I am running out of ideas for serving it after the first meal and would appreciate your help."

This is a paragraph from a letter received by us recently. For the benefit of other readers as well as the lady with the problem, we are giving some suggestions today.

CASSEROLE OF SHOULDER

½ lb. American cheese, chopped
1½ cups thin white sauce
2 cups boiled macaroni
1½ cups chopped, cooked shoulder
4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
½ cup bread crumbs, buttered

Add cheese to white sauce and stir until cheese melted. Put 1 cup macaroni in bottom of greased casserole, sprinkle with ¾ cup shoulder, cover with layer of egg slices and pour ½ of cheese sauce over top. Repeat, arranging remaining ingredients in layers; cover with buttered crumbs. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about ½ hour, or until crumbs are well browned. Makes six servings.

Most recipes that call for cooked ham are interchangeable with shoulder, the meat being very similar. The following recipes, for instance, although they call for ham, could have shoulder substituted just as well.

HAM AND CHEESE PIE

1 cup sliced, cooked carrots
1 cup sliced, cooked potatoes
1½ cups coarsely chopped boiled ham
1¼ cups medium white sauce
½ tsp. paprika
Cheese pastry

Arrange carrots, potatoes and ham in 3 layers in greased 8-inch casserole. Prepare white sauce, omitting salt and adding paprika for additional seasoning. Cover with pastry rolled ⅛ inch thick; moisten edge of casserole with water; press down crust and prick with fork to permit escape of steam. Bake in hot oven (425 deg. F.) about 35 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

HAM TIMBALES

¾ cup milk, scalded
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tbsp. fat
¼ cup soft bread crumbs
1½ cups ground, boiled ham
Dash paprika
Tomato sauce

Stir milk gradually into beaten eggs, add fat, bread crumbs, ham and paprika, and turn into well-buttered custard cups or timbale molds. Place in shallow pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about ½ hour, or until knife inserted comes out clean. Serve with tomato sauce. Makes 6 servings.

TOMATO SAUCE

1 can (No. 2) tomatoes
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 onion, sliced
2 tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. flour

Cook tomatoes with seasonings and onion 10 minutes; force through sieve—there should be 1 cup. Melt butter and stir in flour; gradually stir in strained tomato and stir until mixture boils and thickens, then cook about 3 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Use with vegetables, meat loaves or fish. Four medium-sized fresh tomatoes and ½ cup water, cooked and strained, or 1 cup tomato juice may be submitted for canned tomatoes. Makes 1 cup sauce.

MUSHROOM AND HAM SOUFFLE

2 cups medium white sauce
1-3 cup grated American cheese
¾ cup minced celery
1½ tbsp. minced pimiento
1 cup mushrooms, cooked
¾ cup cold chopped boiled ham
4 eggs, separated
¾ tsp. curry powder
1½ tsp. grated onion

To white sauce add cheese, celery, pimiento, mushrooms, ham, well-beaten egg yolks, curry powder and onion. Mix well, then fold in stiffly beaten whites. Turn into a greased casserole and set in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 35 minutes, or until nicely browned. Makes six servings.

Listen, World!

By H. R. ROBINSON

I WONDER IF THE FLOWERS COME—FOR THIS?

The bluebells sway again
Around the pool
Where we all go.
Bluebells that came from Ireland
Long ago.

She loved them so,
The little mother who has gone.
I hear her laughing
In the springtime sun,
Her eyes as blue
As any bell that hung,
Her words just blurred
With Erin's warming tongue
Telling us all
With Erin's warming tongue
Telling us all
How bluebells
Bloomed in spring
Near Donegal.
And all my heart
Would suddenly take wing
To dear, lost woodlands
I had never seen,
And friends with whom
I'd never danced or sang.
Yet, in that moment,
They became as real
As every inch of land
Whereon I played.
Was it because
The tangled bluebells swayed
Around the pool?
And had they, somehow,
Magic that was made
To break man's dreary rule
Of space and time?
And was there something
In their living breath
That broke the barricades
Of Life and Death?

The violets spill
Their fragrance on the hill
Where once we walked—
My dear, tall son and I.
He loved them best
Of all the flowers, he said.
Each sweet, dark head,
Hidden so deeply
In the matted leaves,
And watching, as he took
Within his careful hand
Each gentle bloom,
I seemed to glimpse the beauty
Of another, lovelier land
Where pain would cease,
And fear and anger,
And we'd be, at last,
At peace.

I wonder if God sends
The flowers, just for that—
To be a promise
And a symbol
Of the joy to come
To bridge the gap,
That, for a little while,
Keeps us from home . . .
And tells us that
We're not, not once, alone?

Good Manners

Give Thanks for Hospitality

By MRS. BEECKMAN

HAVE YOU ever heard some guests who, on departing from a party, thank their hostess only for the food? The hostess doesn't live whose heart doesn't swell with pride when a guest commends her food.

She's spent time and trouble and money in planning the menu she hopes will appeal to her guests and she's done or supervised the cooking so that the foods will be as delicious as possible. Naturally, she appreciates appreciation of her successful achievement

MAKES GUESTS HAPPY

But the hostess is rare who considers that food is the "be-all and end-all" of her dinner party.

Your hostess, any hostess, has not asked for the pleasure of your company just to have you eat her foods. She has an ideal of being considered a gracious hostess, of keeping the conversational ball rolling merrily and easily back and forth, of combining the guests with easy grace. In short, doing everything she can to make her guests happy and comfortable, delighted to share her hospitality as well as the foods.

And what do some guests thank her for? Only the food! Apparently they consider they have been invited merely for the roast, not for the sake of hospitality!

If you feel inclined to compliment your hostess on her meal or on a particular dish, don't hold back your enthusiasm. Either during the meal or afterward, she'll be thrilled to have you say, "I've never tasted such good fried chicken," or, "What delicious dessert, this chocolate souffle," or, "That was a perfect dinner, Jean."

WHEN YOU LEAVE

When you're doing your real job of expressing your thanks, it isn't the food but the hospitality you thank for. When you're leaving, say what your hostess is really wanting to have you say: "I had such a happy time at your party, Jean. Thank you so much for asking me," or, "Thank you for your wonderful party. You're a perfect hostess, and Tom is a perfect host!"

LIMA BEAN TOMATO RAREBIT

4 tbsp. butter
3 tbsp. flour
½ tsp. salt
Dash cayenne
½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 No. 2 can lima beans
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 cup cubed sharp American cheese

Melt butter in double boiler and add flour and seasonings. Drain the liquid from beans and tomatoes; add it to the flour mixture and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add vegetables and cheese. Place cover on double boiler and heat. Serve on toast. Makes 8 servings.

Try serving with B & M Brown Bread and B & M Maine Corn Relish. Burnham & Morrill Company, Portland, Maine.

Take 60 Seconds to Toast-Test Fresh Wonder Bread

Toast Fresh Wonder Bread Against Your Present Bread —In Your Own Toaster

DISCOVER now for yourself the toast fresh Wonder Bread makes—in this 60-second test: a slice of Wonder Bread, a slice of your present bread toasted at the same time . . . for the same time . . . in your toaster.

Note how fresh Wonder Bread comes out browned gold all over . . . with crust delicately crisp . . . inside white and lacy and delicate as angel food . . . toast to make your mouth water. You decide which has the better flavor.

Prove to yourself toast made from fresh Wonder Bread tastes better. In impartial bread comparisons made by over 600,000 women in their food stores throughout the country, Wonder Bread was chosen the "one best bread" 9 to 1 for fresh-baked flavor, fresh soft texture and oven-fresh aroma. Try fresh Wonder Bread for sandwiches, too.

Nazi Uniformed Man Unchallenged In London Stroll

LONDON, March 26 (AP)—Unchallenged, a man wearing a German army officer's uniform and trappings strolled London streets for hours yesterday, looked over busy Scotland Yard and peered through Buckingham Palace's fences.

His was merely another uniform to Londoners accustomed to the varied garb of British, Dominion, Colonial, Dutch, Czech, Norwegian, Free French and other allied forces.

The "German officer" was Donald Collins, film actor employed by the Daily Sketch to point up its editorial campaign urging closer surveillance of aliens.

Virginian Finally Gets Nod

HASH READY TO PICK UP WHERE HE LEFT OFF JUNE 26

By HERB FINNEGAN

MIAMI, Fla., March 27—"So, I'm really going to pitch today," smiled Herb Hash as he pulled the Pullman curtains apart this morning. "Pinch me and see if I'm dreaming."

HERB HASH

Herb Hash hasn't missed a day's practice with the Red Sox since they reported at Sarasota on Feb. 24, and hasn't appeared in a game for three weeks.

The big Virginian was beginning to believe the Sox had forgotten he was with the club, and took the matter up with Pitching Coach Frank Shellenback.

He had been getting letters from his Virginia home and from his loyal public in Minneapolis asking what could the matter be.

He felt better when he was assured by Shelly that it was only because he wanted a chance to look at some of the new men that he (Hash) had not been working regularly. And he was in his seventh heaven when he learned he was to pitch against the Phillies here this afternoon.

Hash, you see, has a mission this year, and he is anxious to fulfill it.

One year ago he had come down to Sarasota with a record of 22 wins behind him in Minneapolis. He had got off on the wrong foot, straining his arm in a game against Brooklyn in Clearwater early in the training season. He didn't do much work until after the club went North, and if it hadn't been for his fine Minneapolis record, it is doubtful if he would have stayed with the club at all. But any man who wins 22 in Double-A ball must have something, so the Sox nursed him along until the advent of warm weather.

Then Hash started to blossom. He was mowing the Yankees and the rest of them down, and he had won seven games before June 26, a better record than any member of the staff had compiled to that date.

Then something happened. It was his back, he thought, and he was treated for that. Again, it was something else, and he was treated accordingly.

Finally they decided that it was all in his head. His teammates said he was so worried over his wife's expectancy that he couldn't get his mind on pitching. Something certainly was wrong, however, because he didn't win a game after that, winding up the season with a 7-7 record.

"It wasn't any of those things," Hash said today. "I just was weak. No zip. Just petered out. But I'm strong as a bull this spring. I'm ready to go nine innings any time or every time they ask me."

Hash stands 6-2 and weighs 185 pounds, and looks strong enough to pitch every day in the week. In the one game he worked in Sarasota, he blanked the regulars with one hit for three innings.

It was a sweet performance, and it was because of that and his excellent condition that Shellenback was satisfied he didn't need the work as much as the new men.

Now that the staff is down to working proportions again, Hash will get all the work he wants. He is anxious to pitch nine innings against the Reds in Cuba, where it's nice and warm and where a fellow really can throw the ball hard without fear of injuring his arm.

He may not get the chance to go the route until the club starts north but he's happy in the thought that the Sox know he's still with the club anyway.

He's 27 years old now, and is never happier than when with his wife and infant son.

Hash is the most devoted husband and father you ever saw in your life, and his team-mates propably put their finger on the proper source of his trouble a year ago.

But that's all over now, and Mr. Hash is ready to pick up where he left off last June 26.

East-West Seek North-South Title

Minnesota Governor High Man

ST. PAUL, March 26 (INS)—A surprising new "sports hero" was in the public eye today—Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, keynote speaker of the last Republican national convention and a leading figure in the 1940 presidential campaign.

Governor Stassen, as a member of the St. Paul winter carnival No. 1 team—a "booster" squad—provided the biggest news at last night's session of the American Bowling Congress when he wound up his three-game series with a game of 208, the highest score ever made by a governor in the 41-year history of the A.B.C.

The youthful Minnesota chief executive began his assault upon the pins somewhat timidly, starting off with 101. He improved in the second game, hitting 159, and then finished in a blaze of glory with his 208 game, bunching six strikes to do so. His total of 468 for three games gave him an average of 156.

BAD FIELD PERILS BEES IN 3-DAY SANTONE FINISH

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, March 26—"Since we returned from the Rio Grande Valley where the sunshine spends the winter," commented Mr. Manager Casey Stengel this morning, "the weatherman has been on our side. So we got in four games in as many days—a new high for this spring.

"Come tomorrow, it will be two weeks since I've seen Pittmann-Sullivan Park. Rudie Hulswitt and Johnny Cooney and my players tell me, it's in terrible condition. That isn't so good for we must work out there for three more days before we break camp.

"I'm taking the boys out there today for I've a few things I believe I should enlighten them on. They've been making so many mistakes in games against the Browns.

WANTS SMART PLAYERS

"Despite the fact that we've been hitting very well this spring I'm also going to give the boys a long batting drill today.

"In the afternoon we'll have an intra-squad game and during that contest I intend to put on some plays. I want to find out who among the youngsters can carry out instructions and catch signs. Smart players will have the call over dumb ones who possess a trifle more ability.

"I'd like to win our series with St. Louis. But, it wouldn't be fair to Pres. Bob Quinn or the New England fans if I passed up opportunities to see the youngsters we have in camp, in action, in order to beat the Browns. We can beat that club, I'll bet you on that. And, we will. But, in the meantime, I intend to get a good look at some of these kids. They might change the picture.

"For instance, let's take the case of Mel Preibisch. He was up with us late last fall and although he made a fair impression, he wasn't sensational. He didn't get into a game until we played Randolph Field and that day he came up with two hits. He didn't go to Mexico, but I did take him down to the Valley, where he sat around for three rainy days.

LIDES 3 AND 2 PITCH

"I started Preibisch against Texas A. and M. and he showed me plenty of courage, for when the announcer yelled through the public address system that he (Preibisch) was a former University of Texas football and baseball star, those Cadets really gave him a going over.

And, in the face of his bitterest enemies, all young Preibisch did in twice at bat was to come up with two line singles. Then, yesterday he showed me that he packs a real wallop by crashing out a 3 and 2 pitch off Jack Kramer for a home run in the ninth inning.

"So you can see what I mean when I say that I feel that I must use my youngsters. If I'd been out to win in every game we have on our spring schedule, Preibisch wouldn't have had a chance to show me that he's as good as he really is.

TORONTO SERIES CHOICE OVER SHATTERED BRUINS

TORONTO, Ont., March 26—Boston Bruins, the wonder team of the National Hockey League through 48 scheduled games, picked themselves off the floor this morning groggy and still somewhat bewildered after a 4 to 2 thumping at the hands of the rejuvenated Toronto Maple Leafs.

Sparked by the return of Syl Apps, captain and standout of Connie Smythe's hirelings, those Leafs blasted their way to their second straight playoffwin over the Cowleyless Bruins and are now in the driver's seat of this first round Stanley Cupplayoff affair with two wins in three starts. They need just two more triumphs. And, afterlast night's exhibition, many are of the opinion that the Leafs will attend to that matter in the very near future with a win tomorrow night here, and Saturday in Boston.

It has been so long long that the powerhouse welded together by Manager Art Ross has been so completely humiliated that nobody offhand could remember a worse trouncing. Never in his three years with the Bruins had Brimsek been beaten seven times—but it happened last night. In fact the Bruins' only victory of the night was Hollett's decision over Davidson in quite a fist fight.

And that villain Apps, the brilliant Leafs center who has been out of action since Feb. 25, was in no small way responsible for it He sank no less than three goals and assisted in another. Apps, together with Gordie Drillon and Nick Metz, the Leafs' great trio, accounted for four goals and picked up six assists.

TAYLOR PULLS "DIVE"

But before going any further, the final score does overlook a few details. In fact, during the first half of the game, it was anybody's affair. Twice the Bruins went out front by a goal and on both occasions the Leafs came back to tie it up.

Then came the trouble—and it was a beautiful dive by a little fellow named Billy Taylor that set the stage.

In came Taylor and he was checked by Des Smith. Billy, instead of shaking it off, faked so perfect a fall that King Clancy ruled Des Smith off for two minutes and there went the ball game.

With Smith in the clink Bucko McDonald fired a shot from just inside the blue line. Brimsek was completely screened, yet he was in the line of the shot, but the puck deflected off Clapper's leg into the opposite corner and the surprised McDonald had a goal that put the Leafs out front, 3 to 2, at 12:46.

From that point on the details of the game can be summed up in Bruins' power plays and the cagey Leafs just laying back, looking for the breaks.

The Leafs got about ten and tallied four more times.

Apps picked up one when he stole the puck from Jackson right in front of the cage to beat Brimsek easily at 17:35 in the second period. Then came the third period windup.

APPS KEEPS BUSY

First Schriner took a pass on a clean break and Brimsek never had a chance—time was 5:36. At 16:23 Stanowski and Apps made a break and Apps was given the honor which he neatly converted.

And just 22 seconds later Apps came in alone once again and was stopped on a miracle save by Brimsek but before the Zero Kid could straighten away Metz clouted the rebound home.

That's the story of the one-sided windup.

Red Wings Play Hawks

By the Associated Press

From champions to also-rans isn't a common transition, but it's not an unfamiliar one to National Hockey League fans. And it serves to tell the story of the New York Rangers this season.

A year ago they rode to the top of the hockey world, bowling over the Boston Bruins, who won the League championship, then going on to beat Toronto in the final playoffs for the Stanley Cup and the world championship.

They never got started right during the 1940-41 season, and now, after the first round of playoffs, they're just a bunch of guys heading back to Canada for the summer—that is all except Muzz Patrick, who is eligible for the draft and expects to go into the Army soon.

RANGERS ELIMINATED

After finishing fourth in the regular season, the Rangers were eliminated by the Detroit Red Wings last night, 3 to 2, in the third and final game of their opening playoff series. Detroit won two of the three games and now will oppose the fifth-place Chicago Blackhawks, who eliminated the Montreal Canadiens in a similar series Chicago also won the deciding game, 3-2, last night.

The two-of-three semi-final series will open at Detroit tomorrow night. The second game is scheduled for Sunday at Chicago and the third at Detroit next Tuesday.

The winner of this round will go into the Stanley cup final, a best-of-seven battle, against the survivor of the long playoff between Boston's league champions and the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

38 Contests For Huskies

Northeastern's spring sports teams will engage in 38 contests, according to the schedule announced this morning by Prof. Edward S. Parsons, director of athletics.

Herb Gallagher's varsity baseball team, which last year won the New England College Conference League championship, will open an 18-game schedule on April 15 against Boston College.

The varsity track team will have four dual meets in addition to the New England and 104A competitions. Jerry Tatton's outfit was undefeated during the winter season in dual meet competition and hopes to stretch that string. The freshman track team has four meets, and the freshman baseball team ten games. The spring schedule is as follows:

VARSITY BASEBALL: April 15, Boston College; 19, at Rhode Island; 24, University of Maine; 25, Colby; 26, Bates; 28, Rhode Island State; May 1, at Colby; 2, at University of Maine; 6, at New Hampshire; 8, Tufts; 10, Connecticut State; 13, Clarke University; 15, at Worcester Polytech; 17, at Connecticut State; 20, New Hampshire; 22, at Harvard; 24, at Tufts, and 27, at Boston College.

VARSITY OUTDOOR TRACK: April 26, Harvard, Holy Cross at Cambridge; May 3, at Springfield; 10, at New Hampshire; 17, Bates at Briggs Field, Cambridge; 23-24, N. E. I. C. A. A. A. at Cambridge; 30-31, I. C. 4-A, at New York.

FRESHMAN BASEBALL: April 17, Tufts; 19, Boston College; 22, Huntington School; 24, at Wentworth; May 1, at Harvard; 3, at Tufts; 6, at New Hampshire; 10, at Boston College; 12, Wentworth, and 16, Huntington.

Virginian Finally Gets Nod

HASH READY TO PICK UP WHERE HE LEFT OFF JUNE 26

By HERB FINNEGAN

MIAMI, Fla., March 27—"So, I'm really going to pitch today," smiled Herb Hash as he pulled the Pullman curtains apart this morning. "Pinch me and see if I'm dreaming."

HERB HASH

Herb Hash hasn't missed a day's practice with the Red Sox since they reported at Sarasota on Feb. 24, and hasn't appeared in a game for three weeks.

The big Virginian was beginning to believe the Sox had forgotten he was with the club, and took the matter up with Pitching Coach Frank Shellenback.

He had been getting letters from his Virginia home and from his loyal public in Minneapolis asking what could the matter be.

He felt better when he was assured by Shelly that it was only because he wanted a chance to look at some of the new men that he (Hash) had not been working regularly. And he was in his seventh heaven when he learned he was to pitch against the Phillies here this afternoon.

Hash, you see, has a mission this year, and he is anxious to fulfill it.

One year ago he had come down to Sarasota with a record of 22 wins behind him in Minneapolis. He had got off on the wrong foot, straining his arm in a game against Brooklyn in Clearwater early in the training season. He didn't do much work until after the club went North, and if it hadn't been for his fine Minneapolis record, it is doubtful if he would have stayed with the club at all. But any man who wins 22 in Double-A ball must have something, so the Sox nursed him along until the advent of warm weather.

Then Hash started to blossom. He was mowing the Yankees and the rest of them down, and he had won seven games before June 26, a better record than any member of the staff had compiled to that date.

Then something happened. It was his back, he thought, and he was treated for that. Again, it was something else, and he was treated accordingly.

Finally they decided that it was all in his head. His teammates said he was so worried over his wife's expectancy that he couldn't get his mind on pitching. Something certainly was wrong, however, because he didn't win a game after that, winding up the season with a 7-7 record.

"It wasn't any of those things," Hash said today. "I just was weak. No zip. Just petered out. But I'm strong as a bull this spring. I'm ready to go nine innings any time or every time they ask me."

Hash stands 6-2 and weighs 185 pounds, and looks strong enough to pitch every day in the week. In the one game he worked in Sarasota, he blanked the regulars with one hit for three innings.

It was a sweet performance, and it was because of that and his excellent condition that Shellenback was satisfied he didn't need the work as much as the new men.

Now that the staff is down to working proportions again, Hash will get all the work he wants. He is anxious to pitch nine innings against the Reds in Cuba, where it's nice and warm and where a fellow really can throw the ball hard without fear of injuring his arm.

He may not get the chance to go the route until the club starts north but he's happy in the thought that the Sox know he's still with the club anyway.

He's 27 years old now, and is never happier than when with his wife and infant son.

Hash is the most devoted husband and father you ever saw in your life, and his team-mates propably put their finger on the proper source of his trouble a year ago.

But that's all over now, and Mr. Hash is ready to pick up where he left off last June 26.

Minnesota Governor High Man

ST. PAUL, March 26 (INS)—A surprising new "sports hero" was in the public eye today—Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, keynote speaker of the last Republican national convention and a leading figure in the 1940 presidential campaign.

Governor Stassen, as a member of the St. Paul winter carnival No. 1 team—a "booster" squad—provided the biggest news at last night's session of the American Bowling Congress when he wound up his three-game series with a game of 208, the highest score ever made by a governor in the 41-year history of the A.B.C.

The youthful Minnesota chief executive began his assault upon the pins somewhat timidly, starting off with 101. He improved in the second game, hitting 159, and then finished in a blaze of glory with his 208 game, bunching six strikes to do so. His total of 468 for three games gave him an average of 156.

BAD FIELD PERILS BEES IN 3-DAY SANTONE FINISH

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, March 26—"Since we returned from the Rio Grande Valley where the sunshine spends the winter," commented Mr. Manager Casey Stengel this morning, "the weatherman has been on our side. So we got in four games in as many days—a new high for this spring.

"Come tomorrow, it will be two weeks since I've seen Pittmann-Sullivan Park. Rudie Hulswitt and Johnny Cooney and my players tell me, it's in terrible condition. That isn't so good for we must work out there for three more days before we break camp.

"I'm taking the boys out there today for I've a few things I believe I should enlighten them on. They've been making too many mistakes in games against the Browns.

WANTS SMART PLAYERS

"Despite the fact that we've been hitting very well this spring I'm also going to give the boys a long batting drill today.

"In the afternoon we'll have an intra-squad game and during that contest I intend to put on some plays. I want to find out who among the youngsters can carry out instructions and catch signs. Smart players will have the call over dumb ones who possess a trifle more ability.

"I'd like to win our series with St. Louis. But, it wouldn't be fair to Pres. Bob Quinn or the New England fans if I passed up opportunities to see the youngsters we have in camp, in action, in order to beat the Browns. We can beat that club, I'll bet you on that. And, we will. But, in the meantime, I intend to get a good look at some of these kids. They might change the picture.

"For instance, let's take the case of Mel Preibisch. He was up with us late last fall and although he made a fair impression, he wasn't sensational. He didn't get into a game until we played Randolph Field and that day he came up with two hits. He didn't go to Mexico, but I did take him down to the Valley, where he sat around for three rainy days.

RIDES 3 AND 2 PITCH

"I started Preibisch against Texas A. and M. and he showed me plenty of courage, for when the announcer yelled through the public address system that he (Preibisch) was a former University of Texas football and baseball star, those Cadets really gave him a going over.

And, in the face of his bitterest enemies, all young Preibisch did in twice at bat was to come up with two line singles. Then, yesterday he showed me that he packs a real wallop by crashing out a 3 and 2 pitch off Jack Kramer for a home run in the ninth inning.

"So you can see what I mean when I say that I feel that I must use my youngsters. If I'd been out to win in every game we have on our spring schedule, Preibisch wouldn't have had a chance to show me that he's as good as he really is.

TORONTO SERIES CHOICE OVER SHATTERED BRUINS

TORONTO, Ont., March 26—Boston Bruins, the wonder team of the National Hockey League through 48 scheduled games, picked themselves off the floor this morning groggy and still somewhat bewildered after a 7 to 2 thumping at the hands of the rejuvenated Toronto Maple Leafs.

Sparked by the return of Syl Apps, captain and standout of Connie Smythe's hirelings, those Leafs blasted their way to their second straight playoff win over the Cowleyless Bruins and are now in the driver's seat of this first round Stanley Cup playoff affair with two wins in three starts. They need just two more triumphs. And, after last night's exhibition, many are of the opinion that the Leafs will attend to that matter in the very near future with a win tomorrow night here, and Saturday in Boston.

It has been so long long that the powerhouse welded together by Manager Art Ross has been so completely humiliated that nobody offhand could remember a worse trouncing. Never in his three years with the Bruins had Brimsek been beaten seven times—but it happened last night. In fact the Bruins' only victory of the night was Hollett's decision over Davidson in quite a fist fight.

And that villain Apps, the brilliant Leafs center who has been out of action since Feb. 25, was in no small way responsible for it. He sank no less than three goals and assisted in another. Apps, together with Gordie Drillon and Nick Metz, the Leafs' great trio, accounted for four goals and picked up six assists.

TAYLOR PULLS "DIVE"

But before going any further, the final score does overlook a few details. In fact, during the first half of the game, it was anybody's affair. Twice the Bruins went out front by a goal and on both occasions the Leafs came back to tie it up.

Then came the trouble—and it was a beautiful dive by a little fellow named Billy Taylor that set the stage.

In came Taylor and he was checked by Des Smith. Billy, instead of shaking it off, faked so perfect a fall that King Clancy ruled Des Smith off for two minutes and there went the ball game.

With Smith in the clink Bucko McDonald fired a shot from just inside the blue line. Brimsek was completely screened, yet he was in the line of the shot, but the puck deflected off Clapper's leg into the opposite corner and the surprised McDonald had a goal that put the Leafs out front, 3 to 2, at 12:46.

From that point on the details of the game can be summed up in Bruins' power plays and the cagey Leafs just laying back, looking for the breaks.

The Leafs got about ten and tallied four more times.

Apps picked up one when he stole the puck from Jackson right in front of the cage to beat Brimsek easily at 17:35 in the second period. Then came the third period windup.

That's the story of the one-sided windup.

Fear Second Louis, Simon Bout Will Hurt Gate in Conn Bout

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—Along the grapevine comes a report all is not flowers and soft music in Joe Louis' happy fight family at the moment, all because of Abe Simon.

When the one-eighth-of-a-ton stood off Joe for 13 rounds in Detroit last Friday, Promoter Mike Jacobs immediately re-matched them for Madison Square Garden in May. Now you hear that one of Joe's managers (name withheld on request from source) is hemming and hawing about the match.

The reason—and if this doesn't slay you, try a gun—is that this particular pilot is "afraid" Joe will chop "our Abe" down in a couple of minutes the next time, thereby affecting the gate for the bomber's tea party with Billy Conn in June.

The way the co-manager figures it out, last Friday's fuss made it look like Conn has a better than fair chance of beating Joe.

FEAR FOR CONN GATE

But if Louis lays Abe low in par the next time, lots of the cash customers may forget all about the Detroit embarrassment and decide to stay away from the Conn bout for fear of what may happen to Billy boy.

However, Joe's other manager and Joe himself want Simon again. Joe never likes to "look bad" against any fighter, and he certainly was no "oomph" guy in there theo ther night. So he wants another crack at Jimmy Johnston's gladiator—and will have it. For, no matter what they say, Joe is grown up now and as smart as the next fellow—and his managers know it.

• • •

Don't get old Jim Braddock wrong about this "comeback" try. The Cinderella man, still one of the grandest guys the nose-flattening industry ever has boasted, knows he's no young colt any more. But, the heavyweight situation being what it is, he figures there's no reason why he shouldn't try for some of that loose cabbage.

So he starts an exhibition boxing tour of one-night stands throughout Dixie this week, with Red Burman as party of the second part. If he can whip himself into satisfactory shape, he's going to go around challenging all the ranking heavies—but to four-round bouts only.

• • •

Some of the youngsters were a trifle mystified, to say the least, when James Joy Johnston went around shrieking the other night that his Abe Simon is the "best Jewish heavyweight since Mendoza." But Jimmy knew his stuff this time. Mendoza was a Spanish-Jewish walloper who migrated to England and won the championship there in the 1700's.

Chicago Golden Glove Tourney a Sellout

CHICAGO, March 26 (AP—The New York Golden Gloves team hasn't defeated the Chicago squad since 1934, but the eastern amateurs will try again tonight before a sellout crowd of 21,000 in the stadium.

The inter-city competition started in 1928 with an 8-8 tie. Since then there have been two other ties, in 1938 and 1940. Chicago has won seven and New York three in the other meetings.

Property Man Of Bucs Offers Consolation

LOS ANGELES, March 26—Chauff Aston, property man with the Pittsburgh Pirates for 30 years, offers some consolation to the despairing Bucs despite their spring showing.

"Back in 1909," he says, "we were bad in training but won the pennant. And in 1927 we were being kicked around so much by Texa sleaguers that Donie Bush, in despair, put a little fellow named Lloyd Waner in left field when we didn't even have a regular suit for him. But we won the pennant and he played regular for 14 years."

R. I. GOVERNOR APPOINTS FENELON RACE STEWARD

PAWTUCKET, R. I., March 26—Edward J. "Hap" Fenelon, former State Senator of Westerly, R. I., and former racing commissioner of this state, today was named State Racing Steward by Gov. J. Howard McGrath and duly sworn in by Director of Business Regulation Wilfred J. Paquin.

Fenelon's appointment completes the stewards' staff which will serve at the coming Gansett spring meeting, Tom Throp and Sam Nuckols, already having been named as the association's representatives in the stand.

The new steward brings to the job a sound knowledge of racing, acquired by a close connection with racing many years before the sport was legalized in Rhode Island in 1934.

Known to all and sundry as "Hap," Fenelon bears the reputation of being one of the state's best known and most popular citizens. It is a fact that he knows intimately more people in all walks of life than any other individual in public life in Little Rhody.

"Hap" Fenelon first entered politics in 1934, interrupting a successful business career which followed his graduation from Westerly's public and high schools.

His first venture politically was as the Democratic candidate for state Senator from his district, when he swept into office by an overwhelming majority. During his first term he served on the public works and finance committees, making a record which paved the way for his easy re-election in 1936.

Gov. Quinn then appointed him as the one-man racing commission in 1936, a position which he filled successfully until his resignation because of a new rule that was adopted against dual office holding.

He refused to run for re-election in 1938; instead, he elected to try for the congressional seat from the 2d district. He was defeated by a narrow margin though running way ahead of the Democratic ticket. He has ever since refused to re-enter politics, devoting himself entirely to his extensive insurance business.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

GENE TUNNEY, WHO has a habit of doing the right thing, once more beat the opposition to the punch when he won an appointment as Athletic Director of the U. S. Navy . . . While some of our present day and former athletic greats were talking about flat feet and draft deferment, Tunney was commissioned a Lieutenant-Commander in the Navy and sent to Pensacola, Fla., for service with Lieuteant-Commander Eddie Mahan, foormer Harvard star.

The government then decided it should have an athletic director for its rapidly expanding Navy . . . Tunney was a natural and a perfect choice . . . During World War days Tunney served with the Marines in France . . . Life in the service built up his body so that following the war he had the strength and boxing skill to win the world's heavyweight championship from Jack Dempsey.

Tunney practiced what he preached in the matter of training . . . When an active boxer, he lived so that he would be fit physically . . . The Tunney who twice conquered Dempsey was one of the finest physical specimens to ever enter a ring . . . In addition Gene had a high degree of intelligence . . . He never made a mistake while boxing.

The best example of Tunney's intelligence was at Chicago after he was knocked down by Dempsey . . . When Gene regained his feet, he ran backwards and the slow moving Dempsey could not catch up with him . . . Dempsey finally stopped in his tracks, and beckoned for Tunney to come on and fight.

By his actions Dempsey admitted he was beaten, that his legs had tired . . . Tunney, having intelligence, scoffed at Dempsey and continued to run backwards, leaving the ring champion.

Why Zivic Demanded Over-Weight Match

THE REASON WHY Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh, world's welterweight champion, insisted that his bout with Mike Kaplan at the Garden on April 18 be over-weight is a simple one . . . Zivic recognizes the risk he will take when he meets Kaplan, and he is anxious that he retain his precious championship even though he lose the decision . . . Kaplan is quite hot now as a result of a run of victories in Boston, New York and Philadelphia rings . . . He is a fast, flashy boxer, and has an even chance of outscoring the champion.

The show will be offered at a price scale of $1.10 to $3.30 which means it will draw $32,000 if it sells out . . . In the event Kaplan should win, the bout could be brought back here next summer with Zivic's title at stake . . . In a ball park with a slight increase in prices Boston might have its first $100,000 gate . . . Sports everywhere are once more experiencing a boom due parly to the increased amount of money put into circulation by the defense program.

Boxing is expected to be one of the chief beneficiaries of this new condition.

In Detroit the other evening almost 19,000 persons witnessed Abe Simons' great stand against Joe Louis, while 3000 persons were unable to gain admission to the Olympia where the match was held . . . I look for a 50,000 crowd and a gate of $500,000 when Louis defends his title against Billy Conn in New York in June.

Mr. Boston Has New Golf Club

PERHAPS IT was because I confessed I was a 100 golfer, and probably couldn't defeat even former State Senator Billy McCarthy, but regardless of the reason I have been made an honorary member of the Mount Pleasant Golf Club of Lowell . . . President L. V. Brown of the Lowell club writes:

"I wish to again thank you for appearing at the Mount Pleasant Golf Club . . . The officers of the club heartily appreciate your sacrifice of time to come to Lowell and give us a very interesting and instructive talk . . . Thus letter will also verify the action of the directors in making you an honorary member of the club . . . I hope you will find it convenient to be with us frequently during the coming season."

Hey, caddy! . . . Give me a No. 9 iron . . . I'm in another trap . . . No wonder I always finish up with a score around 100.

* * *

HARRY KELLEY says an effort is being made by Portland promoters to sign Coley Welsh and Henry Chmielewski for a return bout . . . These middleweights have already met three times . . . Chmielewski has won twice, while the other verdict went to Welsh . . . The Welsh victory was scored at Portland last week.

Harry Kelley, Chmielewski's manager and chief second, halted the tussle at the end of the ninth round when the former champion was suffering from a wound over his right eye . . . Referee Johnny Martin later stated he had scored the bout even up to the time the mishap caused Kelley to hail the contest.

Two Golden Glove Champs on 'Chi' Team

There are two Golden Glove champions on the team of eight that will represent Chicago in the national amateur boxing championships that will be held at the Garden on next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Jack Haley, 22-year-old Chicago youth, who won the Golden Glove title in the featherweight class, and Ray Standifer, 175-pound Golden Glove titleholder, will be tossing punches in the Garden ring.

Haley is 100 per cent Irish, and in the Midwest he is hailed as one of the greatest ring stars to be developed in the amateurs. Haley is a fast, clever boxer, and is able to hit with either hand.

STANDIFER FROM KANSAS

Standifer comes from Wichita, Kan. He is a member of the Missouri Valley Club, and has won most of his bouts by knockouts. He should be able to give a fine account of himself against the ring rivals he will oppose in the nationals.

The other Missouri Valley entries are Joey Aguilar, 20-year-old Mexican 112-pounder from Kansas City. He won the Kansas City flyweight titles in 1939 and '40 and the Missouri Valley A. A. U. and Kansas City Star Golden Gloves this year.

He has engaged in approximately 75 contests, winning all but ten. He has never been kayoed but has handed out knockout potions to approximately 25 ring foes.

The 118-pound standard bearer is Bat Cullison, 19-year-old Irish-American Coffeyville, Kansas, high school student, who advanced to the semi-finals of the flyweight class in last year's Nationals at the Garden. Cullison features heavy body bombardments against rivals and has scored many knockouts.

WHITE GOOD PUNCHER

Gerald White, the 135-pound representative, hails from Hutchinson, Kan., and is the Kansas City Golden Gloves champion of 1941. He is a boxing stylist who has the benefit of four years' experience in amateur competition and is a very formidable foe. He is 21 years old, aggressive and can hit plenty hard with either hand.

Patsy Ancona, 19-year-old Kansas City lad, winner of the 1940 and 1941 Missouri Valley A. A. U. and Kansas City Golden Gloves titles, is the 147-pound entry. Ancona is a very good boxer and a hard hitter. He has been boxing four years with a record of approximately 75 bouts, winning 64 of them. This is his first trip to Boston.

Broaca Seeks Alimony Cut

BARNSTABLE, March 26 (INS)—Johnny Broaca, erstwhile bespectacled pitcher of the New York Yankees, plans a comeback with the newly-organized New England League this summer, he had revealed today.

Broaca, appearing before Judge Collen C. Campbell in probate court, seeking reduction of alimony to his divorced wife, Cordelia Ireland Broaca, said:

"I think my arm is still good."

He told the judge he received no salary last year because he returned home after he was sold to the Jersey City minor league club by the Cleveland team.

The former Yankee's star seeks a reduction from $35 to $12 a week in his payment to Mrs. Broaca and their infant son.

Tunney Picks Eight Fighters to Condition Uncle Sam's Sailors

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, March 26 (INS)—We have with us today, folks, Lt.-Commander J. J. Tunney, No. 1 athletic director of all of Uncle Sam's naval forces.

You know him better, perhaps, as Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion of the world, who drew down the largest purse ever paid a fighter when he received a few thousand less than a million in cash for his second fight with Jack Dempsey. That was the battle of the long count, remember?

And if there is any gob in the Navy who has a lurking suspicion that he might be able to lick the boss, why Gene—still only 43 years old and scaling 205 pounds—will be glad to disillusion him.

EIGHT TOUGH ASSISTANTS

In fact, when we saw Gene last he had eight hand-picked modern fighters who will be glad to take on any gob or Marine. Gene hopes to get all eight passed as boxing instructors for Uncle Sam's far flung Navy posts.

The eight are Georgie Abrams, Jimmy Webb, Tommy Tucker, Al Nettlow, Frank Poreda, Steve Belloise, Cal Cagni and Patsy Perroni. These, Gene assured us, are only the forerunners of a large number of patriotic athletes who are enlisting. These are joining up as boatswain's mates at about $64 a month.

That is a slight reduction from the $10,000 or more some of them have received for a single fight. However, the boss can point out that his stipend is also somewhat under the million he got for beating Dempsey.

You see, this is a promotion for Gene. He was athletic director with the Bureau of Aeronautics, but he did such a good job that Uncle Sam decided to transfer him to the Bureau of Navigation and put him in charge of the entire Navy athletic program. Gene says it is the most satisfying job he ever had in his life.

"Boxing," he assured us today, "is the greatest physical developer in the world. That's why I'm taking boxers rather than baseball players, football players or tennis stars.

HOPE WEBB GROWS

"Let them fight? Oh sure, we will let them off to take a fight now and then and among these first eight I may have picked up the coming middleweight champion in Abrams and the next light heavyweight king in Webb.

"In fact, I expect to see Webb grow an inch and put on 25 pounds as I did when I scientifically went about building myself up to a heavyweight. Who knows, he might one day be heavyweight champion."

Gene is going about this job as enthusiastically, and sincerely, as he did when training for a fight. And we have no doubt he'll make good at this as he did in the ring. But we want to warn those gobs: Don't get fresh with the boss.

Don Lash Quits Track; Stumps For Safety

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 26 (AP)—Don Lash, for seven years one of the nation's top distance runners, has retired from competition to give all his time to his vocation—teaching motorists that highways aren't race tracks.

The Indiana State policeman disclosed his decision informally while delivering a safety lecture yesterday to a service club at Elkhart, Ind. Friends of the trooper here sought corroboration from his wife.

"Yes," she said, "Don is ending his long track career, but he plans to withdraw quietly.

Intimates of Lash said that his inability to train properly while devoting necessary time to police work had influenced his decision.

Lash's last race was the two-mile indoor event in the Chicago relays last Saturday. In 1937 he won the relays' two-mile run in world record time of 8:58. Last week he finished fourth, Greg Rice winning in the record time of 8:42.1.

The fleet-footed trooper was a member of several record-breaking relay teams at Indiana University, and set individual records at distances up to 10,000 meters.

He was the nation's most consistent cross country winner, capturing the National A. A. U. cross country title last fall for the seventh consecutive time.

Lash was not available for elaboration on his plans. At present he is on a speaking tour in northern Indiana.

PICTURE NO. 3

Read the Rules Carefully

1. Beginning in the Boston Daily Record and Boston Evening American of Monday, March 24, and continuing each week-day, a picture of a Boston Bees or Boston Red Sox ball player will be printed until 18 have appeared. Give the correct name of the ball player shown in the picture and find the mistake in each picture.
2. Only one set of answers can be submitted by any one person, but each member of a family may enter, and no family will be entitled to win more than one prize.
3. Hold all answers until you have the completed set of 18. DO NOT SEND IN INDIVIDUAL PICTURES.
4. This contest is open to all bona fide New England residents except employes of the New England Newspaper Publishing Company and other Hearst enterprises and members of their families or relatives.
5. Send your entry by first class mail or bring it to: Baseball Contest Editor, Boston Record-American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston. All entries must bear sufficient postage to be considered.
6. All solutions must be accompanied by a letter of not more than 100 words on, "Who Is My Favorite Ball Player on the Boston Teams, and Why." Letters will be considered only in the event of a tie in solving these pictures. Entries must be in the office of the editor, or postmarked not later than midnight, TEN days after the last picture is printed.
7. A committee of judges, appointed by the Boston Daily Record and Boston Evening American will select the winners in the contest. A contestant, by sending a set of solutions, indicates acceptance of these Rules and Conditions and agrees that the decision of the judges is final, and further agrees that there can be no appeal from the judges' decision. No entries can be returned. All entries become the property of the Boston Daily Record and Boston Evening American.
8. Awards will be given to the persons sending in the nearest correctly solved complete set of pictures. Neither handwriting nor elaborateness will count. In the event of a tie between or among two or more contestants for any of the prizes, duplicate prizes will be awarded.
9. The judges will award contestants one point each for the correct name in each picture and one point each for finding the mistake in each picture. The perfect total score for each picture will be 2 points.
10. Contestants are not required to purchase these newspapers in order to compete. Copies of these newspapers on file in the public libraries may be consulted instead.

TOBIN SAVES KIDDING UNTIL HE'S OFF FIELD

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 26—Jim Tobin is one of the most nonchalant players in baseball. The only time he's serious is when he's out there on the pitching mound. At home, in hotel lobbies, on trips, in the dressing rooms and even during practice sessions, "Yo Yo," as he's known to the players, is always kidding.

A story, which Mrs. Tobin told the writer during the first week in camp typifies Jim Tobin to a "T."

The Tobins live out at Oakland, Cal., and just before Christmas Jim went over to "Frisco" and purchased a beautiful pen and pencil set. Upon returning home Jim showed his mother the set and told her that it was a present from the Boston baseball writers, who had voted him the most popular player on the Bees squad. He didn't even let his wife in on the "rib" but, apparently, she knows him better even than his mother, for suspecting something, she pretended to be overjoyed. As far as Mrs. Tobin, Sr., is concerned, the "rib" is still on.

WINS OVER STENGEL

Jim Tobin was traded to the Bees by Pittsburgh a year ago. When he reported at Bradenton, Tobin and Manager Stengel went into a huddle and let down their hair.

Old Case told Jim about the stories he'd heard about his conduct off the field. Jim countered with a detailed account of the treatment he received from the Pirates organization. Then, they went their separate ways.

Two days before the opening of the National League season last spring, Jim Tobin, who was in the best condition he'd been in in years, wrenched his knee in Washington and was out of action until August. He was sent to various surgeons and doctors. The knee didn't respond to treatment. Finally Jim took the bull by the horns. He decided to let his own doctor on the Coast look him ever. He purchased his tickets and flew out to California. And the operation was successful. Tobin returned to action in August.

NEVER "JAKES"

During a recent press meeting Casey Stengel was voicing his opinion of his pitching corps. Finally he came to Tobin and said:

"Tobin has plenty of 'guts.' He never puts on the 'faint.' But he knows when he's bad and he'll admit it. He doesn't ever care what the manager thinks. He came here with a bad reputation. But he's never "jaked" on me. He'll kid around, but when I tell him to run around the park, pitch batting practice or a regular game, he's always ready. I'd like to have some more of those so-called bad men on this team."

Jim Tobin has been in organized baseball long enough to know how to condition himself. He has taken things comparatively easy this spring, because of the rain and wind. And, for that reason, Tobin's control is not letter perfect. However, he'll be ready when the gun goes to start the 1941 National League race.

ANGEL HOLDS SLIGHT EDGE OVER MORGAN

The Angel will rule a slight favorite when he throws his 250 pounds at the challenger, Ben Morgan, 320-pound Texan, in the world's heavyweight championship match tonight at the Arena.

It will be a return engagement, and there are many who feel that Morgan will take the crown.

If Morgan should win it will mark the first defeat The Angel has suffered since his arrival here from Europe. He has been parading through the big boys in leisurely fashion and there are few who could stand up long enough to give him the slightest kind of an argument.

One who did stand up to him, however, was Morgan, when they first met. Big Ben even won a fall and honors were even in this respect when he lost the bout on a weird break.

The Angel had tossed Morgan out of the ring and Ben was about to climb back when a fanatic grabbed him by the leg and hung on until the referee had counted him out.

ARENA MAT CARD

MAIN BOUT

Ben Morgan, Texas, vs. The Angel, France.

SEMIFINAL

CLARK IN DRIVER'S SEAT

CHICAGO, March 26 (INS)—Sheldon Clark, millionaire sportsman and vice-president of the Consolidated Oil Company, today succeeded Joe Triner, president of the National Boxing Association, as chairman of the Illinois Boxing Commission.

Jones Claims Present Game Is "Terrible"

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 26 (INS)—"Terrible."

That was the emphatic description golfdom's retired grand-slam king—Robert T. "Bobby" Jones—gave today to his practice round at the Augusta National Club.

Jones, on hand for several days' practice prior to the opening of the Eighth Annual Masters' Tournament next week, posted 9-hole scores of 38-36—75, three strokes over par figures.

Whitinsville Well Represented In American Bowling Tourney

The sports loving community of Whitinsville, famous for its many various champions, is sending along a powerful delegation of bowlers to the sixth annual American-Record grand candlepin title tournament which is to be touched off at noon on Saturday.

The Whitinsville entry represents one of the most impressive groups to participate in the 1941 classic, New England's premier candlepin congress. Every one of the men bowlers will compete in the singles, doubles and team competitions.

The Whitinsville Scampers will line up with John Kotercamp, John Minshull, Negro Negargian, Larry Gamelin and Bryan Mathewman. The Whitinsville Spare-men will have Harold Farland, Fred Garcelon, Newell Wallace, Curtis Carr and Tyce Baker.

Baker and Carr will team in the doubles, Wallace and Garcelon, Farland and Gamelin, Mathewman and Negargian, Kotercamp and Minshull.

NORTH ADAMS TEAM

From Holyoke comes the formidable team entry of the National Blank Book Co., an amateur outfit, comprising Philip Beaudry, Frank Koehler, Archie Rankin, William Frese and Ray Martin. They're all ranked with Holyoke's greatest pin artists.

Joe Lipa of North Adams shoots along a grand lineup of his fellow townsmen, participating in the team, doubles and singles fun. The group includes Lipa, Jerry Farquette, Mink Medlini, Lou Noel, Ed Brown, Charles Simonelli, Sam Grande and Flash Estes.

Capt. Russell Dixon is proud of his Claff Box team of Randolph, a high scoring quintet, which includes in addition to Dixon, Mike Kahstites, William Papouleous, Jack Raggett and Frank Archer.

A B. U. STUDENT

Quincy bowling fans are all well acquainted with the Mold Loft No. 5 team of R. Russell, J. Crello, T. Kelly, P. Chiminello and E. Wright.

Royce Fitzpatrick is banking on his Southbridge team of S. Dupre, R. Chamberlain, H. Martin, G. Gameche and himself to take top amatuer team honors. Dupre and R. Heto will team in the doubles, Gamache and Martin, Fitzpatrick and Chamberlain.

Arthur Shafran of Kilsyth rd., Boston, will represent Boston University in the college division singles. Nick Van Ness of Wilbraham Academy and John Brennan of Boston College, both Framingham boys, will also be in this highly competitive division. Anthony Previte of Lawrence will try his skill in the schoolboy singles.

Miss Ruth Avery of Bangor, Me., will bring recognized talents to the tournament in the women's events. She is Penobscot County and city bowling champion, one of the best feminine keglers ever developed in Maine. Lillian Aaron of Charlestown will be in there too.

THREE DAYS AWAY

Joe Sinnott of the Maplewood Sq. Alleys, Malden, enters a strong team, "the Lebanon Club." Henry's Sandwich Shop of Newport, R. I., famous for its quartet of duck-pin bowlers, will send them along to see how they fare with the candlepins. They are Lee Perry, Sebastian Gionfriddo, Gordon Woodhead and Anthony Sharkie.

Paul Griffin of Somerville and James Doherty of Cambridge are out for the men's amateur doubles title. Ilene Morey and Brother Robert Morey of Framingham will be seeking the mixed doubles title, as will Anna F. Perry of Framingham and Robert C. Smith of Waltham.

With the tournament now just three days away from the big opening, the tournament committee asks one and all to swing into immediate action and rush their entries along in TODAY'S MAILS.
